AN ATLANTIC PORT, April 16.—Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, returned to America today after a journey to Europe impelled by his desire to confer with the British, French and Italian military and political leaders regarding his own country's cooperation in the war against Germany and by his wish also to become intimately acquainted with the American troops under arms in France. On this unprecedented mission the secretary was out of the country about six weeks.

"I return with a sense of pride and confidence at the achievements of the United States and allied troops abroad that would justify many trips across the water," the secretary said as he stepped aboard a train which will take him to Washington.

PROMISES REVIEW OF VOYAGE LATER

This was the only statement the secretary said he cared to make until his return to Washington, where he promised a broad review of his voyage and its results. Those who returned with the secretary said they did not doubt but that they reflected Baker's feeling when they said that there was complete optimism and confidence among the peoples of the entente nations that the allies would win the war.

Apparently in perfect physical trim, with color in his cheeks and eager to plunge into his duties at Washington, the secretary stepped ashore at 8:30 o'clock this morning from the deck of a ship which once sailed the seas as a German merchantman. His trip from Europe had been undisturbed by any submarines which might have lurked in ocean lanes.

NO WORDS ON

WORLD SITUATIONS

The weather had been ideal, the voyage a beautiful one Baker said.

Questions asked of the secretary by newspapermen remained unanswered.

"Not a word," he said, in reply to queries as to his opinion regarding the Irish situation, a recent production and the appeal of Arthur J. Balfour, the British foreign secretary, for the United States to hurry troops to France.

"All I can say is what I have given you," the secretary added.

Baker first learned today of the death of Senator Stone of Missouri. "I must express my deep regret," he said.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Military experts here today shared the British view, that with Bailleul in their hands, the Germans will immediately essay the capture of Hazebrouck. The importance of the big transportation center is well recognized here and bitter fighting for it is looked for in the very near future.

Its loss would necessitate the rearrangement of the entire British line in that neighborhood, officers say.

The look with gravity upon the situation, but are still confident the Germans cannot break through.

Bombs Found Near Home of Prosecutor

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 16.—Two bombs, one near one side and the other near the front of District Attorney W. A. Zabel's residence on Sherman Boulevard, were found this forenoon. The missiles were removed before any damage was wrought. It is believed the bombs were placed in revenge for the prosecution of eleven Italians found guilty of rioting at Bay View last September and sentenced to long terms in state prison.

Germany Pays Awful Cost Ready to Waste Million Men

AN ATLANTIC PORT, April 16.—The first German prisoners of war arrived in the United States today. They are members of the crew of the submarine U-58, which was sunk by an American destroyer. The prisoners are to be interned. Their exact number was not given out, but it is believed there are about twenty.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The heavy price the Germans are paying for their advance on the western front was told in despatches to the State Department today, saying that twenty-five trains loaded with wounded are passing through Aix LaChapelle every night.

Germany is prepared to waste more than 1,000,000 lives in the west front offensive, according to information here today.

The Socialist and militarist leaders are understood to have conferred before the drive began, reaching an understanding that the radicals would not interpose any objection so long as the casualties did not exceed the 1,500,000 mark. But beyond that, the Socialists were not prepared to stand for the reckless loss of life, it was said.

The military leaders were understood to have pledged that they could achieve their purpose without incurring such casualties though lately they have been inclined to warn Germany that the gains of terrain have been at a frightful cost.

The nation was informed that the offensive would succeed and that the bloody dreams of the plunderbund would be realized. Behind these pledges lies the explanation of the sudden scrapping of peace talk, according to advices here.

The hospitals at Aix, the despatches said, have been crowded beyond their capacity, and the wounded were lodged in schools, public buildings, great lack of medical supplies and no morphine. It also was reported that the morale of the German troops is not good except among the new levies of the very young.

GERMANY DESPERATE FOR MAN POWER

NEW YORK, April 16.—Germany is so hard pressed for man power, that permanently disabled soldiers are retained in the army and cripples are called to the colors. This statement was made in the Reichstag by Deputy Rysell, an Independent Socialist, on February 23, according to the Berlin Vorwaerts, a copy of which has been received here. Other deputies also caused offense politically as put into the army as a punishment. In Ruesinghen twenty men who joined the Socialist party on January 30 were drafted into the army on February 14.

The soldiers in general complain of insufficient and bad food. What becomes of the food articles which are supplied the army? The non-commissioned officers employed in the cantons continually take food home. In such manner some individuals enrich themselves by taking what belongs to the soldiers. Many officers eat as much as they like, while the soldiers receive bad meat. There are now troops who have been named "hunger companies."

THINK CYCLOPS MAY BE A VICTIM OF GERMAN PLOT

RELATIVES OF MEMBERS OF THE CREW OF THE MISSING NAVY COLLIER CYCLOPS ARE STILL HOPEFUL AGAINST THE CHANCE THAT THE VESSEL HAS NOT BEEN SUNK AND THAT NEWS MAY YET ARRIVE THAT WILL FULFILL THIS HOPE.

Nothing more has been received by navy authorities here or by the relatives of the men who were on the missing collier.

Belief is growing both in local shipping circles and in the East, according to despatches received, that a German plot on the part of stowaways, a handful of men on board the vessel may explain the silence that has dropped around the 19,000-ton collier and her crew of 233 men. No explanation that has been evolved by the navy experts has so far proved satisfactory.

No reports of enemy craft in the sea lanes between the Atlantic and the Caribbean, the West Indian port admitted today to have been the last port in which the Cyclops was heard from, the date being March 4, have been received.

In addition to this, if the Cyclops was attacked, there would undoubtedly have been time for the powerful wireless to send out the call of distress. And there would have been some wreckage on the waters.

The same argument holds good. It is pointed out by shipping experts, with regard to a storm or sudden squall. There would have been time for a radio message and there would have been wreckage. And no storm has been reported since the Cyclops was last heard from in this region.

Orders were issued in Washington today for searching vessels to "quarter" every rod of the route presumed to have been traveled by the collier.

Had enemy agents gained control of the ship by a sudden coup they would have taken her from the regular sea routes, but could not have risked a trip across the Atlantic, as she did not have sufficient coal, and one of the engines was disabled. Reducing her speed to ten knots an hour.

Carl August Miller, listed in the Cyclops passenger list as from Seattle, is the brother of Mrs. D. R. Elise, 1213 Adelphi street, who said today. She said that she received a letter from him saying he was coming home on a furlough. He has been in the navy nine years, having enlisted from Santa Rosa. He is 32 years old. He has been serving on the warship Pittsburgh.

HERMAN LEVY IS SUED FOR HEART BALM

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—Herman M. Levy, Pacific coast representative for a number of prominent eastern corporations, was made defendant in a $25,000 breach of promise action filed in the Federal district court today by Mrs. Hermine W. Lepori, widow of Francois Lepori, famous French engineer, who died three years ago while enroute to America. In the petition filed by Mrs. Lepori's attorneys, Erwin, Fairchild and Shields, it is alleged that in September, 1917, in accordance with the Hebrew customs, the plaintiff and Levy made a public acknowledgment of their engagement to marry, the date of the ceremony being fixed for February 26 of this year, but that on or about February 21, Levy repudiated his agreement to marry Mrs. Lepori and on March 29 the plaintiff went to the hall of the fraternal Order of Eagles, where Levy was, for the purpose of reminding him that his promise to marry her was not a mere scrap of paper and that Levy came out of the hall and met Mrs. Lepori on the sidewalk. The plaintiff then stated:

"That the plaintiff politely and in a ladylike manner asked the defendant to remember his promise to marry her and to fulfill the same, whereupon, Levy, forgetting the courtesy which an American gentleman shows to women, brutally knocked Mrs. Lepori down on the sidewalk, and left her to the tender mercies of strangers who were present."

Mrs. Lepori, who is an attractive French woman, 35 years of age, is employed by Miller and Ross, wholesale milliners. Levy has offices at 320 Market street and resides with his mother at the Granada Hotel, Sutter and Hyde streets.

Mrs. Lepori's former husband died much poor at Khedive, in Egypt, in reclaiming lands along the Nile river.

Levy, in his office, room 34, 320 Market street, denied today that he had assaulted Mrs. Lepori or that he had ever refused to marry her. He will file an answer in a few days.

AMSTERDAM, April 16.—North of St. Mihiel, on Sunday night, says a Wolf Bureau despatch from Berlin dated Monday, the main part of the American position situated to the west of the Meuse river, was taken by storm.

A large section of the main enemy lines of defense on the high road from St. Mihiel to Rouvres (a distance of 3 1/2 miles) the despatch adds, was rolled up during the brave resistance of the enemy who suffered the severest casualties in addition to the loss of prisoners.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES

IN FRANCE, April 16.—Details of the battle on the west bank of the Meuse Saturday proved that the new American army is more than the master of the Germans.

The Boches used their best storm troops to attack us. Numerous unarmored Italians, Poles, Irish, English and Scandinavians were in the American force which, with a knockout blow, repulsed the Germans. The enemy came on in a two-wave formation. Pumping bullets after them, the troops led the attack.

After a three-hour fight the 400 Germans were hurled back. They lost 64 dead, 11 prisoners and 23 maimed.

"The Boches are too respectful now even to fire on patrols. The men are sharpening their bayonets and want to get some more boches," said an officer.

PRIVATE CAPTURES

THEY THIRTY PRISONER.

"One typical American private, Italian-born, but a 'good American,' encountered several Germans in his trench. He killed one and the rest fled. Pumping bullets after them, the private chased them in No Man's Land and captured two. Returning with them to the American trenches, he asked a sergeant for a match. The latter told him to capture another German and he would get it."

"The private thought he had already earned it, but he went out into No Man's Land again and returned with a six-footer—15 inches taller than himself."

The Americans are laden with "Gott mit Uns" belt buckles as souvenirs. The average opinion of the American troops regarding their Teuton enemies was expressed by a Yankee private, who said:

"They are great big bums. They're yellow clear through."

AMERICANS AVENGE

ATTEMPTED TRICKERY.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY

IN FRANCE, April 16.—That Austrian soldiers are on the western front was indicated by information received by Americans from prisoners taken in an action on the eastern bank of the Meuse river near St. Mihiel Saturday.

When the Germans attacked they attempted to trick the Americans by posing as friends in the darkness and confusion.

They sounded the gas alarm in English and then attacked the squads of Americans in the trenches, while they were putting on their masks.

The Americans were quick to discover the deception and avenged it with wholesale slaughter.

The International News Service correspondent today secured an interview from a victorious American who had taken part in the fight. His shoes, uniform, gas mask and bayonet were stained with blood—a grim reminder of the encounter. But he was eager to mix it again. The private, who was from Indiana, said:

"Right after the barrage I saw two Germans with long snippers cutting the wire. I spun two grenades at them and I guess they are both gone now. I never had much time for baseball, though. I had to go to work in a company. I kind of took to grenades right away. I had been assigned to an automatic gun, but can do more with grenades any old time. I sure popped them in fast."

PARIS, April 16.—The material losses in the fire which destroyed the aircraft factories at Friedrichshafen Saturday night were enormous, including thirty squadrons of airplanes reserved for use against the American air fleets, it was announced here today.

One hundred and forty persons were killed and 200 injured.

LONDON, April 16.—Ten German trawlers have been sunk by gunfire in the Cattegat (between Sweden and Denmark) the Admiralty announces. Their crews were saved by British ships. There were no British casualties.

The operations in the Cattegat, the statement says, were undertaken by the commander-in-chief of the Grand fleet.

PARIS, April 16.—Heavy artillery fighting occurred last night on the main battle front in the neighborhood of Montdidier, the War Office announced. The French captured a machine gun and prisoners near the Olse canal.

Premier Clemenceau returned to Paris last night from the battle front where he had been getting into close touch with conditions. The impression of the situation which he brought back to the capital with him was a favorable one.

LONG RANGE GUNS
BOMBARD PARIS.

Shells from the long range German guns killed one woman and wounded one woman and one man in the Paris district last night, according to an official statement.

The statement follows:

"In the region south of Montdidier there was heavy artillery fighting. In the sector of Nogent the French made some progress in a local operation. French reconnoitering parties were very active and particularly in the region of the Olse canal. A French detachment crossed the canal west of Pierre Mandé and brought back ten prisoners and one machine gun. French patrols also took prisoners in the sector of Corbény in the Champagne near Seicheprey and in the Vosges. A German raid at Teton was repulsed.

Everywhere else the night was calm."

SUCCESSFUL RAIDS
IN TOUL SECTION

Successful French raids in the Chemin des Dames and Toul sectors (where American troops are fighting) were reported by the War Office today.

"French patrols took prisoners in the Corbény sector (Chemin des Dames) in the Champagne near Seicheprey (Toul sector) and in the Vosges," the communiqué said.

There was active mutual artillery firing north of Montdidier. The French progressed slightly at Nogent. Along the Olse canal there were French reconnoitering parties crossed the canal and brought back ten prisoners.

COPENHAGEN, April 16.—British destroyers sank four armed German trawlers in the vicinity of Kullen, outside Halmstad, early Monday morning, according to despatches from Gothenburg today.

One trawler, wireless for assistance, escaped.

Zonnebeke and Messines Ridge Are Objectives of Mighty Teutonic Thrusts

LONDON, April 16.—The Germans have captured Bailleul on the northern battle front, the war office announces. The British have fallen back to new positions north of Bailleul and Wulverghem.

Fresh German attacks are developing in the neighborhood of Wytschaete. A German attack southwest of Veux Berquin was repulsed.

Bailleul is one of the most important strategic points on the northern portion of the Flanders front. Field Marshal Haig's report today says:

"We have fallen back north of Bailleul and Wulverghem. Bailleul is in the enemy's hands."

One Dead, One Hurt in Plane Fall in South

LONG BEACH, April 16.—Lawrence M. Reel, aged 21, living at 637 Linden avenue, Long Beach, was killed in an aviation accident on the east beach here this morning.

He was a student of Griford Christofferson, who was so badly injured he may die. They had been engaged in a practice flight.

Christofferson, a brother of Silas Christofferson, who was killed in an airplane about a year ago, conducted a flying school here. Reel was a pupil.

The fall occurred a hundred feet off shore when Reel, in the dual control tractor, maintained here, tried apparently to make too short a turn when flying too close to the water.

The tractor struck the water almost perpendicularly. The machine was wrecked when it hit the sandy bottom in the water not more than a foot deep at that point. Persons who saw the accident waded to the rescue of the aviators. Reel was crushed and his lungs were filled with water when he was taken from the wreckage. Christofferson was badly injured internally.

LOSS OF BAILLEUL NOT UNEXPECTED.

The loss of Bailleul was not unexpected for its strategic value could not compensate for the lives it would cost to retake it.

Last night's attack followed a heavy bombardment from German guns of all calibers. After this preparation the enemy flung into the line the Alpine Corps, the 117th German division and the 110th Bavarian division and bore down on the defending positions along the front from Mount de Lillie, just southeast of Bailleul, to Crucifix Corner, an elevation on the Bailleul highway, a mile west of Neuve-Eglise.

Desperate fighting ensued, but the British were able to withstand the shock from overwhelming numbers of fresh troops. The British line fell back, unbroken, and in good order, to their present positions, where they held.

About the time the Germans surged forward against Bailleul they attempted also to advance by two attacks southwest of Bailleul, just opposite the northeast corner of the forest of Nieppe.

These drives were preceded by heavy mortar preparation. One attack was driven back by artillery fire before the opposing infantry came to close quarters, but the other materialized.

The Germans hurled themselves against the British furiously, but the line held and the attacking troops were forced to fall back.

The British forces kept up an unceasing machine gun and bombing warfare against the enemy transport and depots.

Bailleul has been the scene of the most desperate fighting in the entire Flanders drive. It was the stronghold from which the British hurled back the onslaught from the northern edge of the Nieppe salient. It guarded the entire Ypres salient from the south and it endangered the British positions in Ypres, on the Messines ridge and Zonnebeke.

Fall of Bailleul is the first of the main geographical objectives of the German drive to Ypres. It is located on the Arras-Brussels railway, midway between the two cities. It is three and a half miles west of Neuve-Eglise, which also is now in German hands.

Says Emperor Charles Should Have Resigned

ROME, April 16.—"Emperor Charles should have resigned, but as it is not necessary for sovereigns to leave their posts even when they make blunders, Count Cernin was obliged to do so," says the Giornale d'Italia, in commenting upon the resignation of Count Cernin, as Austrian foreign minister.

CONCESSIONS FOR IRELAND ARE PROMISED

LONDON, April 16.—Sir George Cave, home secretary, having repudiated Joseph Devlin's suggestion that the government wished to provoke civil war in Ireland, explained that the government desired to treat England and Ireland alike in the matter of tribunals. The only object of proposing a limit to the right to appeal, he said, was to diminish delay. There was no intention of delaying tribunals could be set up in Ireland, but he had no doubt that they would be appointed on recommendations from the Irish local government board.

Herbert Asquith, former premier, welcomed further concessions announced by Sir George, but still urged the government to go cautiously.

Sir George, in behalf of the government, announced that the government would not be constrained. He also accepted an amendment providing that regulations of recruiting and tribunals would be controlled by local government boards, instead of as proposed in the bill, by royal proclamation.

CLAUSE CARRIED.

After these concessions had been announced the clause under discussion was carried by a vote of 275 to 234, the announcement of the figures showing an increasing minority. This growing opposition to the bill was loudly cheered by the Nationalists.

Sir Edward Carson's rather unexpected attack on the government arose during the discussion of the clause giving the government power by proclamation to override military exemptions already granted by tribunals. The government already had made some concessions to meet the adverse sentiment of the public over the proposed diminution of the power of tribunals, but many members deemed still further concessions desirable.

Sir Edward, amid applause from both the Nationalists and Unionists, declared he distrusted the government and felt they were keeping Ireland dangerously in the dark.

"The government is playing with the right honorable gentlemen opposite," he said, "and is playing with us. Whatever they intend to apply to Ireland they ought not to be ashamed of."

IRONIC REMARKS.

Sir Edward's speech was punctuated by ironic remarks by John Dillon and loud cheers from the Nationalists. Joseph Devlin, following, said that Sir Edward's attack was one of the strongest and most welcome things he had seen Sir Edward do.

"In order to cover up their misdeeds," he said, "the government is playing the anti-Irish card to create civil war in Ireland. Conscriptio is not a national necessity. It is a dirty trick and Carson has exposed it."

The second trial of Malcolm McGown, whose trial for the killing of Rasmus G. Groden the jury disagreed, was continued until late today at the request of Attorney A. A. McGowan, who said he had some matter in connection with the case to discuss with the district attorney. It is understood that he is urging the dismissal of the information, or the granting of probation in consideration of a plea of guilt in a manslaughter degree.

Trial of Accused Germans Postponed

The appeal of Dr. Harry Franck and nine other Germans convicted in the selling court of distribution for the drinking of a toast to the Kaiser in Faust's Cafe, was continued without discussion until Thursday at 9:30 a. m. by reason of the fact that there is a trial on in the department which will occupy all of tomorrow.

Dry Zone Plan Is Indorsed Injustice to City: Nedderman

Endorsement of the demand of the State Law Enforcement League for a fifteen-mile dry zone around Yerba Buena Island naval training camp was voted in resolutions unanimously adopted last night by the Taxpayers' League. The resolutions will be transmitted to Secretary of the Navy Daniels and a copy will be filed with the Oakland city council. The league also went on record in favor of national prohibition.

Chief of Police J. H. Nedderman today filed his formal report with the city council telling of his conference with former Senator E. E. Grant, executive of the Law Enforcement League, and Mrs. Helen Sweet Artida, secretary of the Public Welfare League of Alameda county, at which Grant submitted his evidence to substantiate the charges that Oakland saloons and cafes have been instrumental in debauching United States sailors and soldiers in uniform.

INJUSTICE TO OAKLAND.

Nedderman's summary of his findings from Grant's evidence follows: "While, as chief of police, I welcome the aid and co-operation of the Welfare League and the Law Enforcement League in making Oakland a clean, moral city, yet I cannot help but feel that a grave injustice has been done Oakland in herding in the public press statements that Oakland is a ridden, when the facts are as I have shown herein, that the most searching investigation by Mr. Grant, the Welfare League and Federal investigators show no street walkers in Oakland, no soliciting by women in cars, only one instance of soliciting by an unknown woman in a restaurant, one lodging house charged with harboring immoral women, the inmates of which had been arrested by me prior to Mr. Grant's investigation, and who had been dismissed of the charge by United States Commissioner Krull."

Following the reading of Chief Nedderman's report in the city council, Commissioner F. E. Morse said: "I think that the chief has made a clear and concise report on the situation. I am at a loss to understand how Senator Grant has been able to make such accusations to Secretary Daniels. I resent the interference of Senator Grant in the affairs of this city if conditions are as represented in this report, as we believe they are after hearing Grant's talk."

"In addition, it would seem that the ordinance now before this council, providing for regulation of the resorts questioned, will seem to remedy the conditions. I believe that the police department is to be commended for maintaining efficiency in the matter and for the action already taken."

Commissioner Jackson stated that Chief Nedderman is ready to proceed with several prosecutions growing out of the Grant exposure if Grant will swear to the complaints.

"Grant is from San Francisco, is he not?" asked Mayor Davis.

"Report filed," added City Clerk Cummings.

It was stated from the office of

Mrs. Artida today that several of the women cafe entertainers who yesterday attended the session of the council to protest against the city ordinance presented by Commissioner Jackson to eliminate women entertainers, had visited the office of the Public Welfare League to inquire about the employment which Mrs. Artida said she would help to find for them. The women yesterday demanded of Mrs. Artida in the council chamber what she intended doing for them, if she succeeded in having the cafes closed and put out of employment.

DEFENDS CAFE SINGING.

Lillian Kyle, one of the cabaret singers, said that many of the women had dependents whom they were supporting, and declared that they were entitled to make a living by singing and playing in cafes.

Mrs. Artida left Oakland today to attend the conference of social agencies being held this week in Santa Barbara. It is understood that she will take up the question of the vice crusade and the campaign for a 15-mile dry zone around Yerba Buena Island at the conference.

Efforts on the part of Mrs. Artida to have the Vice Council Committee of the Alameda Council of Defense join in the vice crusade met with failure yesterday when she took the matter up at the regular meeting. Mrs. Artida asked that the Army of Mobilized Women undertake to circulate the petitions prepared by the Public Welfare League and the State Law Enforcement League petitioning Secretary Daniels to prescribe a 15-mile dry zone around Yerba Buena Island training camp. This they declined to do.

"If the request came from Washington, we would be glad to undertake the work," said Mrs. M. E. Anderson, who moved that the request should be refused. "We are engaged particularly in these branches of war work for women approved by the army and navy authorities in Washington, and it would not be proper to take this up without their sanction."

Miss Ethel Moore presided at the meeting.

FAVOR DRY ZONE.

Resolutions calling upon Secretary Daniels to prescribe a 15-mile dry zone around Yerba Buena Island were also adopted today by the San Francisco Methodist preachers at their meeting in the assembly room of the Methodist Book Concern following an address by Grant on moral conditions in San Francisco and Oakland.

The resolution by the ministers was signed by Rev. James H. Hinkley, president, and Rev. W. H. Hampton, secretary. It was sent as a telegram to Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

The resolutions adopted last night by the Taxpayers' League was signed by Dr. H. H. Hinkley, president, and W. H. Wood, secretary.

It declared that the league had information corroborating the charges made by Grant, and called attention to the statement that alleged vice in the cafes and saloons are a menace not only to sailors and soldiers, but also to 20,000 ship workers in Oakland plants engaged on government work.

ROHAN BEATS SICK MAN IN MARKET ROW

Application was made today to Prosecuting Attorney W. J. Hennessey for a warrant charging James Rohan, proprietor of a market at Sixth and Washington streets, with battery, the complaint being made by Harry Bellin, who rented stall space in the Rohan market. Hennessey took the matter under consideration after hearing Rohan's side of the case, stating that if Bellin can produce witnesses substantiating his statements he will issue a warrant. Bellin is a small man and has recently been in the hospital. He said he could not defend himself.

At the same time Louis Glaiberman, head of the Retail Merchants' Association, caused Rohan to be cited to appear before the prosecuting attorney to show cause why he should not be placed under bonds to keep the peace, alleging that Rohan had made threats against him. Hennessey cautioned Rohan to keep the peace and warned him that he must not take the law into his own hands.

AS TOLD BY BELLIN.

The quarrel which led to Bellin's application for a warrant occurred Saturday night. Bellin's story to the prosecuting attorney was as follows: "Rohan had ordered me out of his market and had given me notice. I had made arrangements to move to a place up in the Tenth street sanitary market and had placed a sign on my booth, notifying my customers that I was going to move and where they could locate me. Some of Rohan's men came and tore the sign down. I went and complained to him. He said he would have no signs advertising another market in his place and I was trying to explain to him that I was still renting the booth and had a right to put a sign there telling that I was moving when he swung on me and knocked me down."

"I got up and put my hands over my head and face to defend myself, as I had been sick from an operation and could not fight so big a man who had a boxer. But he knocked me down again. Then a tall man came along and put his hand on Rohan and made him stop."

ROHAN'S STATEMENT.

Rohan's statement to Hennessey was as follows: "I didn't take Bellin's sign down, but he came and blamed me for it and got into a fight with me. He held my arm and tried to drag me down to his booth. I tried to shake him off, but he wouldn't let go, so I hit him."

After the trouble Mrs. Bellin went to Rohan to ask him not to strike her husband again and to explain that he was partly crippled by the operation he had undergone. According to Mrs. Bellin, Rohan blamed Glaiberman, her brother, for the trouble and made threats that he would attack him.

"He said he would beat up my brother," said Mrs. Bellin. "He said he would beat him up and pay a fine if he was arrested."

It was on her statements that Glaiberman offered to offer to be before Hennessey, resulting in Rohan being warned not to attack either of the men.

Glaiberman also previously rented space in Rohan's market and Rohan had threatened to have him removed from the market because of trouble and dissatisfaction among the stall renters. This was denied by Glaiberman at the hearing before Hennessey.

MONEY INFLATION IS LAING'S THEME

The use of Liberty bonds for banknotes will produce higher prices throughout the country, according to Prof. Graham A. Laing of the University of California extension division, who spoke before the Advertising Club of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce on "Currency Inflation and the Misuse of Liberty Bonds."

According to Laing, it is a disservice to the government to use Liberty bonds for currency, as well as an injury to the community. He declared that the bonds were never intended for that purpose, and that the purchaser who does so is really not lending money to the government, but is restricting the government's purchasing power.

"Mr. Dooley once remarked that 'the whole currency question is a matter of lungs.' Like much of his philosophy, there is a considerable amount of truth in the remark. Probably more has been said and written about currency questions as if they were simple, when as an economic theory. Part of the trouble lies in the attempt to treat currency questions as if they were simple, when as a matter of fact they are the very reverse. I myself may be guilty this afternoon of the same mistake, but if so, it will not be through a failure to realize the complexity of the subject."

"After all, the essential principles are not so very complicated. If we once realize that all economic values simply represent the ratios at which commodities exchange for another, and that price is the ratio at which commodities exchange for money—the standard commodity—we have the key to the whole situation."

Laing's audience has been stated that the federal reserve notes constitute an inflation of the currency. If our definition of inflation is correct this cannot be the case, for the federal reserve note, unless it is based upon gold entirely, in which case it becomes merely representative money, is based upon a definite commercial transaction requiring currency to the amount of the issue.

"There is a distinct possibility, however, that if the new war finance corporation had put into operation the discount of obligations secured by finance corporation bonds, will constitute a very definite form of inflation, and for that reason, if for no other, the President is well advised in giving every consideration to the act before deciding to put it into force."

Ex-Austrian Premier Given Army Command

COPENHAGEN, April 16.—Count Czernin, who resigned as Austrian foreign minister, has received command of an Austrian brigade on the Italian front, it was learned here today.

There was a sharp conflict of opinions when Czernin appeared with Emperor Karl on Sunday morning, it is said. Later, the emperor received Count Tisza and Dr. Wekerle, the Hungarian premier.

TORONTO, April 16.—Fire did $750,000 damage to the plant of the Harris Abattoire Company at the Union stock yards here last night. Half a million dollars' worth of foodstuffs were destroyed.

Police are investigating a report of mysterious explosions preceding the fire.

GOODRICH WILL SPEAK AT MEET

"Should City or Rural Districts Bear the Burden of Winter Unemployment?" will be the subject of an address to be given by W. S. Goodrich, superintendent of the Oakland Public Woodyard before the Conference of Social Agencies at Santa Barbara tomorrow. Goodrich, who is a university man and who has been aided by a number of students in making a small laboratory of social investigation at the Oakland municipal woodyard, was invited to speak of the general problem of unemployment. His theme deals with the placing of the responsibility for housing the migratory laborer during the slack winter season when he is out of a job.

Professor R. L. Adams, who represents the federal government in the investigation of farm labor conditions in California, will preside at the session tomorrow, and George L. Bell, of the State Housing and Immigration Commission will speak. C. D. Sexton of the State Employment Bureau will also take part in the discussion.

HAYES OPENS HEADQUARTERS FOR CAMPAIGN

Headquarters were opened in San Francisco yesterday by J. O. Hayes of San Jose, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. The Hayes forces are established in rooms at the Claus Spreckels building. From the San Francisco office will be directed the organization of San Francisco of the bay counties and Northern California.

With the opening of headquarters, Hayes issued the following statement: "I want the citizens of San Francisco and the citizens of California to know that I am in this fight for governor to stay and to win."

"I plan a campaign of absolute frankness. The day is past when men can be elected to office by backroom methods. The public demand to know the caliber of men they elect to office; they demand pledges of forward-looking, constructive administrative work that must be fulfilled to the absolute letter."

ECONOMY IS KEYNOTE. "It is my pledge, if elected, to possess to the best business talent I possess to the task of simplifying, consolidating and economizing the business of the state, so that a maximum result may be secured at a minimum of expense."

"Some changes in state administration are desirable, but most of these should wait the close of the war before being undertaken, for the reason that the thoughts and energies of those of our citizens who should help in wisely working out these changes are now being given to war problems. Nothing should be permitted to interfere with this service to the nation."

"The demand made by the war upon the man-power of the nation has resulted in greatly enlarging the scope of woman's activities. As a result, the capacity of women in almost every field of human endeavor has been fully demonstrated. In many branches of industry they have been shown to be more efficient than men. Where women do the work of men and produce equal results, they should be paid equal compensation."

In Los Angeles tonight Chairman Will H. Hays of the Republican National Committee will be the guest of honor at a dinner arranged by local Republicans which will be attended by former Progressives and old line Republicans.

Deputy Holds Up Boss; Loses His Star

SAN RAFAEL, April 16.—W. B. Sellmer, deputy constable of Novato and self-proclaimed "speed" cop, known to nearly every motorist who travels the San Rafael-Petaluma road, lost his star today for holding up his boss, Constable Thomas Sutton, on the highway and threatening to arrest him. Sutton discharged Sellmer forthwith.

Sellmer has been a political storm center in Marin county for about a year, ever since he first appeared on the road with a star pinned to his breast. He has arrested scores of motorists.

Sellmer withstood the attacks of the motoring fraternity until today, when he caught his "boss" parking his car on the wrong side of Novato's main street.

"It Wasn't Boozing," Is Note of Suicide

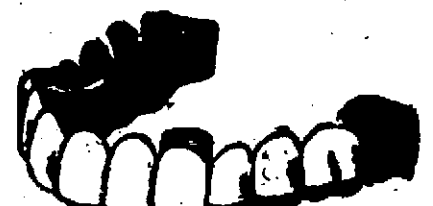

SANTA ROSA, April 16.—"It wasn't boozing that did it," was scribbled on a piece of torn paper nearby when the body of young Leroy Price was discovered in a lodging house over a saloon. He died a suicide, as did his father before him. Price was arrested in Visalia some weeks since for failing to provide for his wife and he was brought here for examination. At the hearing, the magistrate had to remind him that he could not smoke on the witness stand. He was held for trial, but now death has intervened. He had been married only a few months. His wife was formerly Miss Gladys Bledsoe. He was about 25.

Hear Arguments in Hindu Case

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—The last one-half days allotted to the government by District Judge William C. Van Fleet. She will be followed by Attorney George A. McGowan. Dr. C. K. Chakraverty, one of the defendants; Attorney R. M. Royce, L. de L. Bartlett, Timothy Healey, Daniel Yost, A. P. Black, Theodore Roche, C. E. Denio, O. Irving Wise and Stanley Moore, in regular order each having been given from 30 minutes in the case of Royce, who is representing G. Lal, former University of California student, to three hours given Theodore Roche, representing the German consular officials to defend the argument of Mrs. Adams will continue their respective clients.

Mrs. Adams reviewed the alleged conspiracy today from its inception in 1910 when she said a group of 551 Hindus gathered on the Pacific coast and later returned to India to prepare that country for the supposed uprising. She laid emphasis on the alleged participation of Hans Tauscher, husband of Mme. Gadsby, the opera singer, pretending that he was the American representative of the Krupp and purchased $175,000 worth of arms and ammunition which were sent to the Pacific coast and later became part of the cargo of the schooner Anna Larsen which was intended, before its capture, for shipment to India in furthering the plans of the revolutionists.

CRIME ON INCREASE. LONDON, April 16.—Crime in England is now showing an upward tendency, after a remarkable and continued fall since the beginning of the war. The annual report of the British constabulary attributes this to restriction of street lighting

NEED HASTE FOR AMERICAN HELP

LONDON, April 16.—What is now most pressing required that the fighting forces of the United States should be brought as speedily as possible into the field," said A. J. Balfour, the foreign secretary, speaking at a luncheon to the American labor delegation. "The German plan," continued Balfour, "is to shatter the British army before the American weight can be brought into the scale. The German inspired press has been instructed by its masters to show the utmost contempt for the American military effort. But the masters do not share that contempt. They are planning their whole campaign and are sacrificing

The majority of the men were from the old "fighting seventh" guard regiment of Chicago.

MUNICIPAL FOOD SAVING EFFICIENT

LIVERPOOL, April 16.—Liverpool, the second largest city in England, is leading the whole country in solving the food shortage problem. It has municipal kitchens which are models and work more efficiently than those in any other part of the kingdom. It sets every other city in the country an example by maintaining a municipal potato peeling plant and cooking the potatoes for the bakers to mix with their flour. The latest enterprise is supplying householders with boiling water for cooking and washing purposes and thereby causing a great saving in fuel.

Blue Bird Bureau-

No. 1733—that is his number at the Oklahoma State reformatory. Before he got a number and a cell, he lived in Oakland. His family and a number of friends are still here, and in a letter received from the reformatory today, the request is made that his name be not used.

"I do not wish to bring shame upon my family," No. 1733 wrote in a letter to The TRIBUNE, referred to the Blue Bird Bureau, "But I am very anxious to learn about what is going on in my home town, to keep in touch with the happenings in Oakland and the state in general. I hope to come back to California, and I am longing for news of home."

The letter does not tell for what offense No. 1733 was placed in the institution, other than to say that it was an act "that is not considered heinous, but rather that of an impulsive person."

It was written to The TRIBUNE to make what No. 1733 acknowledges is a somewhat unusual request. What he asks is to be made a subscriber to The TRIBUNE for six months on credit, with the promise that as soon as he regains his freedom, he will repay the amount.

One need not be of an unusually sympathetic nature to realize the hardship of loss of liberty and the free air of day. When that confinement is made voluntarily more hard to bear by the man depriving himself of letters from old friends, or from any knowledge of what is happening among his former associates, the loneliness is so much greater.

"I am a native of Oakland, and lived there all my life until I came to Oklahoma a short time ago," the letter reads.

"I have friends, but I do not wish to disclose my whereabouts to them, wishing rather to shield them. So I am applying to you."

The request will be granted. A man who was known by a number in San Quentin was helped by the Blue Bird Bureau both while he was in the institution and after he had gained his parole. He is now living in Oakland, having made a splendid record since he has regained his freedom. It is felt that the stronger the ties binding a man who is undergoing this punishment to the world of free men, the better will be his chances of re-establishing himself in that world.

ousted because of a controversy with Cotton following the investigation of the packers by the federal trade commission, but this is denied by others connected with the meat division. Durand has been absent from his desk for a week, it was learned today on inquiry. E. L. Roy, in charge of export shipment, denied that Durand is in France and said he is in Washington.

WILD ANIMAL LIST CONTEST NEAR END

Tomorrow is the last day to make up the list of wild animal names and win one of those fifty free tickets to Al G. Barnes' wild animal circus that The TRIBUNE has for you.

Each mail brings in new lists and it looks as though the animal editor will have to ask for help. Anyway it is lots of fun helping the contestants win those free tickets to the world's greatest animal exhibit coming April 19 and 20.

Barnes Circus has two schools of performing seals and sea-lions. They ride galloping horses and play toss ball with one another at the same time. Captain Stonewall, who has charge of these sea-lions, is an old sea captain and learned all about these lions of the sea, saw them in nearly every part of the world, and can teach them to do almost anything.

Here again are the full conditions for winning those free tickets to Al G. Barnes' Wild Animal Circus: Read them carefully:

There are fifty tickets in all. They are given to boys and girls under fifteen years of age in Oakland or vicinity who send in the longest correct list of names of wild animals made up from the letters in the sentence, "Wild Animal Circus Actors Prize Contest." There are seventeen letters of the alphabet in this sentence to be used in spelling the names of wild animals.

Each letter may be used as often as necessary in spelling a name. Only names of wild animals count. Animals that have been domesticated, such as cow, horse, dog, goat, etc., do not count neither do the names of fishes, birds, insects or rodents.

Names must be spelled correctly written on one side of the paper only, numbered and sent in with a coupon cut from The TRIBUNE.

Prizes are awarded in the following manner:

ARMY WILL AID U. S. HEALTH WORK

CAMP LEWIS, TACOMA, Wash., April 16.—"Let me tell you that the million men now in the United States Army and the millions who may eventually enter, are not coming back to their home communities and states for the inadequate municipal control of health hazards. Even at last Christmas time the Boverly boy—in eastern camps went home and threw the coal from the tenement bath house because he had been taught in the army to take a body bath at least twice a week, and to wash his hands surely before each meal, and not to drink out of a cup some one else had used. The city and country boy went home and disrespected his good mother by telling her that her ice box was dirty. No more will these men sleep in stuffy bedrooms to avoid catching cold. And when these millions of trained fighting men return to their home communities after the war, they will surely be a strong force for a responsible, able and well-financed municipal health department."

In these words Colonel Peter C. Field, chief surgeon of the 1st Division, predicted the future results to be expected as a result of the practical health measures taught the men in the National Army. Colonel Field was addressing the citizens of the city of Tacoma on an Efficient Health Department, and urging co-operation between the municipal and army health officers in order to protect the soldiers outside of camp as well as in camp.

NEW COMMUNITY.
Colonel Field characterized Camp Lewis as a new community, half-way between Tacoma and Olympia, "where your sons and brothers have formed a new little city."

"Perhaps you will admit that the National Army at Camp Lewis has what is known, even to the runs, a wonderful spirit or esprit de corps. We perhaps take ourselves too seriously. But, perhaps more than you, know the business ahead and every day teaches us that the more preventable disease that exists among us, just to that extent are we less fit to represent our own there."

"I have said that the spirit of these men from your homes is truly wonderful. It is so much deeper than the similar spirit in evidence in the regular and national guard divisions that it has been the subject of report by inspectors. It is so true a spirit of to do and die if necessary, that it is reported the War Department looks to the National Army divisions to provide the backbone of the whole army of the United States which includes regular and national guard."

COULD SEE VALUES.
"If representatives of Portland, Olympia, Seattle and Tacoma could be visible spectators in my office during the many daily interviews with soldiers of the Wild West Division who come to me with requests to be released from the quarantine in order that they may go home to see a dying wife, child or mother, these representatives would go away with a completely new point of view. And if they could read the letters from the dear ones and hear the statements of these men to the effect that both mother and sister or wife feel that permission to go back to their sick ones should be decided entirely upon the basis of what is best for all. When the mother or wife writes that she is quite willing to die without seeing her soldier boy if the best interests of the country demand it."

Masons Honor Oakland Men Given Office in Grand Lodge

Two Oakland men, John W. Gwilt and Francis H. E. O'Donnell, were elected officers of the Grand Council of Royal and Select Masons, at the annual meeting of twenty-three councils, which took place in San Francisco yesterday. Gwilt was elected grand chaplain and O'Donnell grand conductor of the council. Oakland Council No. 12 conferred the Super-Excellent Master's degree on a class of candidates during the evening council sessions.

Dr. Samuel E. Burke of Los Angeles was elected grand master at the opening sessions of the grand council, succeeding Harvey L. Alvarin of San Francisco. Other grand officers elected and installed yesterday were: Deputy grand master, H. Ray Fry of San Jose; grand conductor of the work, David J. Reese of Ventura; grand treasurer, W. W. Douglas of San Francisco; grand recorder, Thomas A. Davies of San Francisco; grand chaplain, John W. Gwilt of Oakland; grand captain of the guard, Ernest E. Ford of Alhambra; grand conductor of the council, Francis H. E. O'Donnell of Oakland; grand steward, Clark E. Shaw of Long Beach; grand orator, Samuel D. Mayer of San Francisco; and grand sentinel, George W. Perkins of San Francisco.

William Parker Fumer of San Francisco is slated for election Wednesday.

as grand priest of the grand chapter of Royal Arch Masons, which opens its two-day session at the Temple today. Grand High Priest Edward Buren Spencer of Los Angeles, will preside and will deliver the annual address this morning. An address by Mattison R. Jones of Los Angeles will feature this afternoon's session. Following a get-together dinner of the grand council and the grand chapter at the temple tomorrow, ritualistic work will be performed.

The grand commandery of Knight Templars will hold their annual session Thursday with Grand Commander Samuel A. Clark of San Francisco presiding. Because of the war, the usual parade drills and evening receptions will be omitted this year, doing away with the customary second-day service. The grand council voted to invest $3100 from its treasury in the Third Liberty Loan.

Punish Artist, Wife for Giving a Bail

AMSTERDAM, April 16.—An American artist named Schaefer, and his wife have been sentenced at Munich to imprisonment for six weeks for holding a costume ball soon after the beginning of the German offensive, a press despatch from Frankfurt reports.

The loyalty of Oakland men, women and children to the fighting men "over there" will be tested next week, when thousands will be petitioned by the Oakland Woman's Committee to eliminate from their daily menu for at least one week all wheat products. Pledges are to be taken for his measure and housewives will be appealed to to eliminate, if possible, wheat from their homes until after the next harvest in September. Already Ebel and Oakland club members have taken the pledge to observe the "no-wheat" request.

Cafes and restaurants are to be asked to co-operate with the Council of Defense in eliminating wheat from their menus for at least one week and for a longer time if possible. Placeards are to be placed in public eating places to assist patrons in selecting a wheatless menu. Miss Mary Vail of Mills College has prepared recipes to be used by housewives during this period.

The co-operation of all retail grocers in the bay cities has been asked the Woman's Committee by G. W. Little, secretary of the Retail Grocers. All grocers will hold an exhibition of wheat substitutes.

When the Baby Needs a Laxative---

No one knows better than the ever-watchful mother—the natural doctor of the family in all the small ills—that when the baby is out of sorts it is usually due to indigestion or constipation.

It is always well in any of its illnesses, to look for this cause. The diet may have to be changed, but before good can result from it, the bowels must be moved.

The mother has the choice of many medicines—cathartics, purgatives, bitter-waters, pills, physics, etc. But the little body doesn't need such harsh remedies for they wrench the system and do only temporary good, so often followed by an unpleasant reaction.

A better plan is to employ a mild, gentle laxative of which only a little is required. There is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold by druggists under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin that thousands of mothers have used successfully for baby's constipation and its accompanying ills, such as belching, wind colic, restlessness, sleeplessness, etc.

The nursing mother will also find it ideal for herself, and it is especially important that she be free from constipation.

Syrup Pepsin is guaranteed to do as promised or the druggist will refund the money. Thousands of cautious families have it in the house, secure against the little ills.

EMBEZZLER OF $800,000 DIES AT 71

CHICAGO, April 16.—Paul O. Stensland, confessed embezzler of $800,000 from the Milwaukee Avenue State Bank, which failed more than eight years ago, died yesterday of a complication of ailments at the age of 71.

Just before the failure of the bank of which he was president, Stensland fled to Morocco, where a few weeks later he was found by James Keeley, then general manager of the Chicago Tribune.

Stensland was induced to return to Chicago, pleaded guilty to embezzlement of the bank's funds and was sentenced to five years in prison.

After serving a little more than one year he was paroled and he set about making another fortune, in order he said, that he might repay in full the depositors of the wrecked bank.

His health overtook him and he made only indifferent progress toward recouping his fortune.

The bank under receivership paid about seventy cents on the dollar.

WARTIME RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR

Actress Gives Simple Inexpensive Recipe for Streaked or Faded Gray Hair.

Mrs. Mackie, the well-known New York actress, now a grandmother, and whose hair is still dark, recently made the following statement: "Gray streaked or faded hair can be immediately turned black, brown or light brown, whichever shade you desire, by the use of the following simple remedy that you can make at home."

"Merely get a small box of Orle powder at any drug store. It costs only 25 cents and no extras to buy."

"Dissolve it in one ounce of water and comb it through the hair. Full directions for use come in each box."

"You need not hesitate to use Orle, as a $100.00 gold bond comes in each box guaranteeing the user that Orle powder does not contain silver, lead, zinc, sulphur, mercury, or any other products of their derivation."

"It does not rub off, is not sticky or greasy, and leaves the hair shiny. It will make a gray haired person look many years younger."—Advertisement.

Fifty-Five Employees of Owl Drug Co. Buy Bonds

First of the "Hundred-Percenters" were the Oakland Owl Drug stores. MISS NORMA KNIGHT (left) and MISS JEAN BARKHURST of the Owl Drug Company.

Oakland Stores of Firm Reach the 100 Per Cent Mark in Support of Liberty Loan

Setting an example in patriotism for business concerns, the Owl Drug stores were the first two stores in Oakland to reach the 100 per cent mark in their support of the third Liberty Loan. Every one of the fifty-five employees on the payroll of the two stores has bought one or more bonds, the amount of bonds acquired in the two stores totaling $10,600.

Thirty-five employees at the Thirtieth street store have purchased $2,600 worth of bonds, not counting the bonds bought by the management and executives. At the Fourteenth street store the twenty employees bought $1,500 worth of bonds.

The Owl Drug Company has in addition purchased $5,000 of Liberty Loan bonds in Oakland.

Because of the two Oakland stores of the company have made, R. E. Miller, president, has subscribed an additional $1,000 for each store.

Miss Norma Knight, superintendent of the toilet department in the Thirtieth street store, and Miss Jean Barkhurst, who has a similar position in the Fourteenth street store, are two of the employees who have loyally supported the Liberty Loan.

HOW BONDS ARE BOUGHT.

The Owl Drug Company gives its employees the privilege of buying the bonds and of paying $1 for each bond a week until they are paid for.

The employees are paid full interest on the bonds beginning at the time of purchase and have the use of their money besides.

Other stores of the Owl Drug Company in different cities are also in the lead in subscribing to the third Liberty Loan.

The company's Los Angeles store was the first 100 per cent business house in the country.

Of the seven San Francisco stores of the company, six have already subscribed 100 per cent to the Liberty Loan.

The Owl Drug Company is also actively patriotic in other ways.

War Association has been formed by the company and the employees for the purpose of keeping in touch with the 120 employees—15 from Oakland—who are now in the service of their country. Each week, each one of the men is sent a letter giving news of his former associates and home town topics.

GIFTS SENT EACH MONTH.

Once a month each man is sent a gift package. On Thanksgiving, for instance, each man was sent a box of fruit, candy and tobacco, and in February a box containing a number of useful articles, including tobacco, shoe polish, tooth brush, tooth paste, shaving soap and many other articles.

To help cheer him up, a smileage book has been sent to each man.

John Simmons, formerly assistant manager of the Thirtieth street store, is the first of the Owl Drug Company's employees to give his life for his country. Word was received recently that he was killed while serving with the medical corps. He came to Oakland from Santa Ana.

MRS. WINGFIELD'S MOTHER DIVORCED

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—Mrs. America Hall Murdoch, 1745 Washington street, mother of Mrs. George Wingfield, wife of the Nevada capitalist, won her fight for an interlocutory decree of divorce from Robert B. Murdoch, stock and bond broker, in Judge Morgan's court yesterday. Property rights were settled out of court.

Mrs. Murdoch testified that she had been separated from her husband since June 20, 1918, and that prior to that time he had treated her cruelly. She stated that Murdoch drank to excess; that for almost a year he did not come home to dinner, and that he gave her parties, entertaining men and women and asking her to absent herself on these occasions.

She stated in response to a question from the court that the troubles of her daughter and George Wingfield had not been connected with her own trouble with her husband.

Mrs. Murdoch testified that Murdoch had insulted his wife in her presence by using abusive language and that he was abusive at times.

Women Asked to Join New League for Service

Every woman in the county anxious to do her share of war work is urged to enroll in the National League for Women's Service, which has reorganized at 420 Central Bank building, and is prepared to offer efficient service to the various war organizations in the county. In order that women may know the league stands for and fully comprehend its purpose and scope, its headquarters will be open to those desiring information from 10 to 12 every morning, except Sunday, and from 2 to 6 o'clock every afternoon, Saturday and Sunday excepted.

In asking the league point out that it is their time and not money that is requested. Women are asked to give any time they can possibly spare to some service that will help to win the war.

GIRLS Clear Your Skin Save Your Hair With Cuticura

A Single Application Banishes Every Hair

(The Modern Beauty) Here is how any woman can easily and quickly remove objectionable hair, growing in the most possible injury to the skin. Make a paste with some powdered deodorant and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a painless, inexpensive method and, excepting where the growth is unusually thick, a single application is enough. You should, however, be careful to get genuine Cuticura.—Advertisement.

SOCIETY

The Defenders' Club, at Thirteenth and Harrison streets, was the busiest spot in Oakland on Saturday, when 700 men in uniform spent a part of their play-day under its roof—writing letters, keeping the billiard tables busy, enjoying the library, which, incidentally, is an adequate adjunct to the club's entertaining the members' supply of home-made pies and cakes and good things under Mrs. W. H. Ketcham's motherly care, the dance in the evening the interesting dinner.

The dance, directed by Mrs. John H. Perine and Mrs. Lillian Brown Everts, was one of the largest gatherings at the club, the floor space of the club auditorium being taxed to its capacity. Happily, there were no parties of the ladies, the hostesses seeing to it that the "lying squad" is ready for service at the first sign of a scarcity.

During the absence of Mrs. Thomas Mitchell Potter, Mrs. Lillian Everts will preside over the club's destinies. Mrs. Potter having taken a month's vacation.

The Wednesday night dances are proving immensely interesting to the boys who have not yet acquired the art of dancing, a number of the recruits in hand on the mid-week night.

Miss Sarah Louise Arnold, dean of Simmons College, who counts many friends among the College Alumnae about the bay, will be the guest of honor at the morning under the food administration auspices and in the afternoon at the University of California. Among the audience at the college yesterday were many Simmons graduates, who assembled to greet their former guide and instructor.

A large reception and house-warming will be held this evening in the new rectory of St. Paul's Episcopal Church by Rev. Alexander Allen, rector, and Mrs. Allen.

A general invitation to be present to all members of their parish and the receiving list will include a large number of east bay society.

Among those on the list are: Isaac Regu, Mrs. J. Shortridge, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hilliard Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Henshaw, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Writes about "Turning to Salt"

Lot's wife came in to see me today. She's made of salt, and she's proud of it. She lived in a beautiful home in a beautiful city once, long ago, and she said that she should leave it all. So she shut the door of the beautiful house and locked it and picked up her suitcase and her knitting bag and looked to the fastening of her bracelet watch, and settled her veil and started out into the wide world to seek her fortune.

It was a good fortune, too, that she sought, and she could have found it if only she hadn't turned around at the first turn of the road and looked back—and when she looked she turned to salt, and she's been ever since.

She was telling me about it this morning—she didn't know she was, but she was just the same.

"I can never get used to being alone," she said. "I feel so forlorn at twilight, somehow—that's the worst part of the day."

"And when I see people happy together, men and their wives, women and their husbands, children and their mothers—oh, I can't stand it! At least, I can't pretend any longer not to care."

"We were so happy, life was so gay and so friendly, and now—"

Poor woman! She's made of salt, and she's proud of it.

Those who look back.

Lot's brother was in yesterday—oh, no, all the people who look back and are turned to salt aren't women.

Lot's brother was a man in a good position once. He had money and friends and a nice, comfortable family, but his wife wasn't what he thought she was. And when the man found out about her, he left home, and forgot his friends and tried to forget his family, and now he wanders over the face of the earth—and remembers. Always and always he remembers—and the wistful eyes of the little boy who wanders where he has gone, not the sweet face of the little girl who cannot understand why she's deserted, but only the deceit of the woman he trusted who betrayed him.

He looks back, always back. And he is turned, poor fellow, poor, foolish fellow—to salt; just as all those who look back and not forward.

I know a woman who had a great business disappointment. She had an ambition and she failed in it. What did she do? Pick herself up and go on. Not she! She turned around and looked back, and turned—to salt.

What a mistake it is—what a foolish, bitter, cruel, short-sighted mistake—to look back and turn to salt!

The world is so full of beautiful things. Why, just the yellow buds of the acacia blossoming in the gardens on the slope of Russian Hill, to see them is joy. The ripple of the water in the sunshine, the strange, spicy smell of the eucalyptus, the sound of the laughter of little children—how like a peal of silver bells it is! The look in the eyes of a faithful dog who runs to meet you when you go home, the friendly smile of the conductor on the street car—how worth while it all is, how very much worth while!

NOT THE FASHION NOW.

But if you're turned to salt, you don't see these things. You don't even know they exist.

It used to be the fashion to turn to salt.

I can remember a relative who came to visit us when I was a little girl. She was a widow, dressed all in crepe. She even had jet bracelets and a jet brooch to pin her crepe to. The husband she had married and she was married, so they said in whispers, and "she never got over it."

We all admired her very much for this, and thought she was romantic and beautiful and so "constant."

When I meet such a woman as that now, I'm sorry for her, but I don't admire her.

What right has she to throw the veil of her sorrow over this bright and beautiful world? How can she expect all the world to turn around with her and look back and turn to salt—even when it is very romantic and not at all unbecoming?

Salt is a fine thing. We couldn't live without it. It adds flavor to the coarsest food, and if we didn't have it we'd come near to starving, but I will take mine in the morning, please, or on the dining room table—I don't like it in the heart of human beings.

Revelations of a Wife

by Adele Garrison

"Well, why don't you say I told you so?"
Dickie growled out the words after he had taken a long eloquent look at the sign "For Rent. Caretaker will show the house," which decorated the front entrance of Putnam Manor.

He did not answer him. In the first place, I was too tired and hungry after our long tramp to do anything more than stare at the deserted inn, the little place to which we had come for a long day in the country. I had begged Dickie to inquire whether or not Putnam Manor was open. But, manlike, he made fun of my inexperience, and refused to make an inquiry, saying the inn had been open would be empty. Because I was hungry and I was tired, I had to go to the chicken and sea food meal which Dickie had so glowingly described during our waiting for me to say.

"I don't think there's anything for me to say," I replied quietly. I have always prided myself upon being a woman who would not say "I told you so," no matter how great provocation I had.

"Oh, no, there's nothing for you to say," but you stand there with that martyr-at-the-stake look on your face reflecting on how different everything would have been if I only had taken your advice. I'd much rather you'd save me the whole afternoon."

"Don't you think you are a trifle unreasonable, Dickie? I am as hungry and disappointed as you are. If I reproached you because you would not inquire about this place this morning, you certainly would be angry. Because I say nothing you are annoyed. If you will kindly tell me just what to do I will do it."

I suppose my last words were not calculated to soothe Dickie. He gave a short, disagreeable laugh, and turned away.

"No use standing here," he said. "Might as well go back to the station and get the next train to the city."

"Dickie," I said, almost. "Why, it is only a few minutes after five. We have the whole afternoon. Surely, there must be some place around here where we can get something to eat."

"I don't know of a place," he returned, but evidently my eagerness to stay and finish our day's modified trip, for he drew the least bit of indignity in his remarks.

"Would you like to look around the old shack now or here?" he asked. "I see it for sale, as well as for rent, and if it's sold, of course the vandals that buy it will tear the old house down and build the latest and best building lot."

"With a row of houses each exactly like the others," I agreed, with a little "Sure," returned Dickie. "You'd think, out here, where there is a lack of room, that people would like a touch of individuality in their homes. Of course you do find lots of attractive houses, but the majority of the people seem content with houses that look as if they had been poured out of a mold in some factory."

"To ring the bell, Dickie," I said. "I am so anxious to see the inside of this old mansion."

"Ring the bell!" Dickie exclaimed scornfully. "Where do you think you are? In the 20th century? Look over your shoulder. The bell is there."

I looked and exclaimed in delight, for just above my head was an immense knocker of the kind that adorned the old colonial homes. I lifted it and let it drop, but the sound that came from it seemed to me like a thunderbolt.

"The sharp peal of a bell may not have the sound of the olden time, but it is more effective," said Dickie, answering me look on my face, but the opening of the door showed a tiny, old-fashioned, old-fashioned house.

A tall, thin woman stood in the opening. Her face was pale, her hair drawn back from her face and coiled in a tight knot on the top of her head. Her dress was clean and tidy, but very plain and coarse. She held a bundle in her arms, while another little one, scarcely more than a baby, herself peeped at us from the shelter of her mother's skirt.

"See the house is for rent," began Dickie, gesturing. "How much is it per month, and how soon could one take possession?"

I looked at him in amazement. I knew he had no more intention of renting this immense place than he had of flying to the moon. As I was gazing at the reference to the woman, I realized that she would not object to our looking it over.

My cheeks flushed with chagrin. Nothing is so foreign to my nature as pretense of any kind. I would far, far rather have never seen the old house than to go over it on the pretext of wishing to rent it.

"I do not know what price is put upon it," the woman looked at us, a shrewd appraising look that brought a hot flush to my cheeks. "I knew that she understood that we were only casual sight-seers."

"You will have to ask the agent," she went on.

"But there is no objection to our looking over the house while we are here, is there?" Dickie asked her with his most winning smile.

"None," the woman answered laconically.

A noted Cincinnati chemist discovered a new ether compound and called it freezeone and little quarter ounce bottles can now be obtained from any drug store for a few cents.

You simply apply several drops of freezeone upon a tender corn or painful callus and instantly the soreness disappears, then shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it off with the fingers.

No pain, not a bit of soreness, either when applying freezeone or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also toughened calluses just shrivel up and lift off so easily. It works like a charm. Millions of women will hereafter keep a little bottle of the wonderful freezeone handy and never let a corn ache twice.—Advertisement.

ACCIDENT PROVES FATAL.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—Andrus Bohan, 85, pioneer ship carpenter of the bay district, died at St. Mary's hospital this morning from injuries received yesterday when he was struck on the head by a falling plank at the Oceanic Steamship Company's dock at pier 37. Bohan lived at 1244 Arguello boulevard.

THE FIRST WOMAN JURORS OF THE SUPERIOR COURT OF ALAMEDA COUNTY HAVE ORGANIZED AN ALUMNAE CLUB. Mrs. A. T. Kalas is president and Miss L. Marion Jacobs secretary.

Miss Amy Holman will give a benefit Thursday evening at the Shattuck for the benefit of the fireman's free wool fund.

Miss Ethel Moore, chairman of the Oakland Women's Committee Councils of National and State Defense, will give a benefit Thursday night to attend the annual conference of social agencies at Santa Barbara, which opens today.

At the Claremont School Mothers' Club meeting held April 11 the annual election of officers took place with the following result: President, Mrs. J. D. Davidson; first vice-president, Mrs. O. F. Honnold; second vice-president, Mrs. N. P. Alken; recording secretary, Mrs. C. E. Mynard; correspondence secretary, Mrs. H. L. Laver; treasurer, Mrs. E. P. Colgate.

With the baking powder and salt. Add enough liquid to make a soft dough. Turn on rolling board and roll to about half-inch thickness. Cut with a floured biscuit cutter. Bake about 15 minutes.

Cornmeal Loaves—Two cups cornmeal, one teaspoon salt, one cup water, one and three-quarter cups boiling water. Pour the boiling water over the other materials. Beat well. When cool, form into thin cakes and bake 30 minutes in a hot oven. Makes 12 loaves.

For dinner on the wheatless days do not serve rice. Serve both rice and potatoes for this meal. Do not serve either spaghetti or macaroni on this day, for these are both made of wheat.

Pastry is made, make the crusts of cornmeal or the following oatmeal recipe: Oatmeal, one cup; water, one cup; ground oatmeal, one cup boiling water, one teaspoon fat.

Sauté the oatmeal with the water. Add fat and mix thoroughly. Very thick and line small pie or tart tin with the mixture. Bake in a hot oven.

There are plenty of wheatless desserts for both lunch or dinner such as gelatin jellies with fruit and nuts, cereals molded with dates or raisins, fresh or dried fruits, oatmeal or barley four puddings, cornmeal tarts, etc., etc. The list lengthens out indefinitely.

Is there any corn, then, for not keeping the wheatless Monday and Wednesday wholly in your home?

ORCHARDISTS WARNED TO BATTLE PEST

"It is just about time for some of our common orchard pests to get busy and wage their annual warfare on the first crops of the county," declares Farm Advisor M. A. Lee of Alameda county, in a bulletin to orchardists and home gardeners just sent out.

"If taken in time some of the worst of these can be very well controlled, and the orchardist will do well to keep his eye open and get them while the going is good.

"Perhaps the most common and one of the most damaging insects that we have to contend with is the codling moth, which is the insect most responsible for wormy apples and pears. The moth lays its eggs on the fruit when it is in blossom, and if proper measures are taken at the time there will be little trouble from wormy apples. The proper measures consist of spraying with arsenate of lead, diluted as follows:

Paste 4-6 lbs. per 100 gallons of water.

Powder 3-4 lbs. per 100 gallons of water.

"Either the paste or powder form may be used, but in either case it should be neutral arsenate of lead, as will cause burning if it is acid. Spray as soon as half the blossoms have fallen while the calyx is still open and again in two or three weeks.

PEAR THRIPS. Another insect which works in the blossom of pears and other fruit is the Pear Thrips. This has been very destructive in some orchards and can be controlled by using the following spray:

Water, 12 gallons.

Whale oil soap, 30 lbs.

Distillate (22 C-340 B), 20 gallons.

Distillate 1 to 20 with water and to 200 gallons of diluted mixture add 1 pint black leaf 46. This should be applied as soon as the thrips appear in the blossoms, usually just as the bud clusters are opening.

RED SPIDER.

"Another common insect that we have to deal with at this time of year in this district is the Red Spider. The eggs of the insect are laid on the bark of the trees and generally start hatching about this time. A large portion of these eggs may be killed by a winter spray of lime-sulphur, and this is a very satisfactory method of combating the insect. Where this is not done, however, another method should be used. This consists of spraying with Aromatic Sulphur, diluted 1 to 10 with water. This spray is very effective on the young spiders and two-spotted or Brown Mite and should be used when the first eggs hatch out. It may be necessary to spray several times to get all of the young mites, as they hatch out, but in no case should the spraying be delayed until the spiders are mature, as the spray is less effective on them at this time and they reproduce very rapidly."

Aged Woman in Court In Guardianship Case

The application of the appointment of a guardian for aged Mrs. Malinda L. Lewis, came up before Judge Joseph K. Kohn today. Mrs. Lewis, who is 80 years of age, is unable to walk, and is unable to take care of herself. She is the widow of a man who was a member of her own family who would act.

The property involved is a life estate in two pieces of property in East Oakland, valued at $5000. Mrs. Lewis is at present in the county hospital.

Questioned by the attorney for the applicant, Mrs. Lewis appeared to be unable to reply intelligently, but to the questions asked her by Judge Kohn she gave coherent answers, and indicated without uncertainty that she did not want an outsider appointed to manage her affairs. She told the judge that she never saw the applicant and did not know her.

The matter was continued for further hearing, by reason of disputed matters in connection with the property rights.

U. S. Mail Auto Truck Runs Down A. J. Olsen

A. J. Olsen, an employee of the William Capp Co., of San Francisco, living at 2616 Linden street, Oakland, was run down and severely injured at Twenty-first and Market streets by a United States mail auto truck. Olsen had just stepped off a street car, and had not leaped to save himself, when he saw his danger, the truck would undoubtedly have passed over his body. He was caught by the wheel, one foot was badly crushed and he suffered other bruises and injuries.

The driver of the truck, who gave his name as N. Hanzy, carried Olsen to his home and had a physician called.

SUITS IS BEGUN.

The damage suit brought by G. C. Martin, Oakland, who was injured in an accident on the Southern Pacific right of way in Red Bluff, was begun in Red Bluff today. Martin and G. H. Vincent of Corning were crossing the railroad tracks at Oak street when their automobile was struck by a freight train. Vincent died of his injuries and Martin was permanently injured.

A recent Associated Press despatch mentioned "a woman, said to be the wife of a Texas man, now with the troops in France." Of course we all know that it was the man that was in France and not the woman, but it couldn't have been told from the despatch, any more than Charles R. Greene, city librarian, could tell about William and Mary. A woman came into the library and wanted to know when William I was in America. Greene said he had never been here.

"Oh, yes, he was," said the woman, "he landed at Portsmouth, N. H."

"But that's impossible, madam," declared Greene. "For William lived in 1066 and America was not officially discovered until 1492."

"Don't argue with me," retorted the woman, pulling a pedigree book from her hand-bag.

"It says here the Samuel Browns of Milltown are direct descendants of William I, who came to Portsmouth from England with his wife Mary and five children on the frigate Soho. There it is as plain as the nose on your face. They even named a college after them—William and Mary College."

Greene sat down wearily.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but all the Williams and Mary books are out."

"Why didn't you say so in the first place," snapped the woman and she fluttered out with her disposition and her book of the Browns' pedigree, under her arm.

EDUCATOR GETS ON TERRIFIC BUMP.

This happened at the Hotel Oakland during the convention of high school principals.

A traveling man stood in the lobby and looked on. He was a self-made traveling man. He wore a cigar, a kimbo, and a suit of loud design, and he had opinions, oh, yes, quite emphatic opinions, on many things.

A traveling man from some rural district mistook him for the principal of the Oakland high school, or the state commissioner of education—purely on account of his prominence in the lobby, of course, and engaged him in conversation.

"You know," said the traveling man, "I'm making so many changes in world geography these days," announced the academic one, deferentially.

"You know it," responded the traveling man.

"Take the Sandwich Islands, for instance," pursued the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"We never hear of that name any more for Hawaii. It has been abolished."

"Surest thing you know," replied the traveling man. The Food Administration got after 'em. They're makin' all these here privateers cut out foolin' the people. Them Japs put it over on Spain, but when little U. S. A. got on the job. Bingo!

It took two siphon bottles and some smelling salts to bring the educator back to consciousness.

Laconics—the fine art of pithy expression, for which Congress has never been noted—is an Irish characteristic. Lance Richardson of the "Espee" ran up against it, when in his earlier days he helped find the lack in Lackawanna and made a railroad out of it.

They had an Irishman on the foreman's construction job named Tom Callahan, who was famous for wit. When Tom first came to work for the company, they put him looking for washouts. The superintendent gave him his instructions.

"Don't make out any long-winded reports," he said. "We've got plenty to do without reading history in here. Just report on what you find in as few words as possible."

That night a storm came up, and the river with it. The superintendent came down in the morning fearful, but when he found no report from Callahan, he decided that the dangerous parts were all right. About noon, the 9:55 freight brought in Callahan's first report.

"Sir," it read, "you know the railroad? Where it was, the river is. And there's a hell of a lot of it!"

HE WON A DEBATE, BUT TWAS BEFORE HE MARRIED.

He was stooped, and discouraged looking. He shuffled along the street, with his head down, a despondent expression on his face. He represented lost hope entirely surrounded by an aura of despair. As he ambled along, he passed two Nicka-hunka-lunch fraternity men.

"Know him?" asked one.

"No," said the other, "who is it?"

"Blinky-blink, who won the Carnot debate medal in 'steem."

"Well for the love of Mike! He doesn't look it now."

"No, he got married afterward. They tell me he hasn't won a debate since."

"You know it," responded the traveling man.

"Take the Sandwich Islands, for instance," pursued the other.

"That's right," said the other.

"That's right," said the other.

NEXT BLOW OF TEUTONS IS PUZZLE

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS,
United Press Staff Correspondent.
WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, April 16.—Beaten to a standstill before Amiens and blocked on the road to Hazebrouck, where will Hindenburg strike next?

He must strike again or acknowledge his offensive broken, which nobody here pretends is the case. British generals admit the allies must wait further blows, similar to those just passed, before the war's great crisis is over.

About 150 enemy divisions (1,440,- 000 men) have already been identified in the Somme and Lys fighting. This does not mean that they are unable to fight further, as many have but few losses. With their unused divisions the German masses are still colossal.
French troops continue to arrive from Russia and Rumania.

Hindenburg has well over 200 divisions (2,400,000 men) on the west front. Reliable authorities in Switzerland told me the German forces would reach 250 divisions (2,640,000 men) before a definite decision.

Prisoners admit the Germans' great difficulty is bringing up guns and material. The British artillery has killed many horses and badly cratered roads are frequently impassable for motor trucks, necessitating rebuilding. The bridge also must be reconstructed and narrow-gauge railroads prolonged.
Desultory fighting continues on the northern and southern battle fronts.
German artillery is busy shelling Amiens by day and bombing it by night—but not heavily, as Von der Marwitz probably hopes to establish headquarters there and does not wish to destroy it totally.

The German artillery generally is less noisy, owing, prisoners declare, to the difficulties in supplying ammunition.

Engagement of Major Dorst, U. S. Engineers, to Berkeley Belle Is Announced

TRIBUNE BUREAU
SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—

BERKELEY, April 16.—When Major

James Archer Dorst, U. S. A., recruiting officer for the 31st engineers, was sent to Berkeley early in the year to secure new soldiers for Uncle Sam, little did he dream that he would engage in a recruiting campaign of his own to win him a fair bride.

Success was met the dashing young officer in both of his campaigns. News of his engagement to Miss Catherine Helene Woolsey, popular college belle and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank R.

Woolsey, pioneer residents of Berkeley, became known today and is being a show of good wishes upon the well-known couple.

Major Dorst and Miss Woolsey first met early in the year at a social function in San Francisco. Later, Major Dorst was assigned to recruiting duty in Berkeley in behalf of the 31st engineers.
He made Miss Woolsey his special aide at the university and the acquaintance-ship formed in San Francisco soon ripened into a deeper affection with close association in behalf of Uncle Sam.

Miss Woolsey is one of the most popular members of the 1918 class at the University of California and is a member of the Pi Beta Phi sorority. She comes of one of the most prominent pioneer families in Berkeley, being a granddaughter of James R. Woolsey, for whom Woolsey street in the college city is named. She is a niece of Dr. Roy L. Woolsey, president of the Berkeley board of education.
Major Dorst has the distinction of being one of the youngest officers in the United States army, holding his present rank. He is a graduate of West Point and comes of a prominent family of Warrenton, Virginia.

The wedding will be celebrated next month, following Miss Woolsey's graduation from the university.

triotic program consists of Charles

"BALD-HEADED DADDY" OUSTED FROM COLLEGE

CHICAGO, April 16.—Notice of suspension as associate professor of sociology in the University of Chicago was to be served today on William I. Thomas, the "bald-headed daddy" of pretty Mrs. R. M. Granger. Thomas' arraignment in morals court yesterday on a disorderly conduct charge was followed by a telegraphic order of suspension from President Judson in Washington, D. C.

Meantime, the campus board of trustees began an investigation of the case in which their distinguished, elderly colleague was involved in an amorous hotel-room adventure with his tiny little lady, whose husband is fighting in France.

"It is true," said Dean James F. Angell, "that Thomas is not lecturing this semester, but President Judson's order of suspension was for the benefit of the public because the community's morality has been offended."

Dean Angell said the decision of the board would probably be announced immediately following this afternoon's session.

Clarence Darrow, chief counsel for Thomas, prepared today for Friday's hearing in morals court when Thomas and Mrs. Granger are expected to appear in public together. Mrs. Granger was reported ill in bed at the Thomas residence, mothered by the professor's wife.

PISO'S

MANY FRIENDS OF LIEUT. CAMPBELL HEAR OF FIGHT

SAN JOSE, April 16.—The host of friends of Douglas Campbell, youthful first lieutenant in the Army Aviation Corps, are jubilant by reason of the news that he has been decorated with the French war cross for having downed a Boche air fighter. Lieutenant Campbell, who is only 21 years old, is the son of Director and Mrs. W. W. Campbell of Lick Observatory.

Campbell was graduated from Harvard only last June. His boyhood was passed on Mount Hamilton, where mountain climbing laid the foundation for a splendid physique. After passing through the mountain school he was sent East of Hotchkiss School at Lakeville, Conn.

From here he went to Harvard, where he had a splendid record, finishing with special honors in chemistry. After this country entered the war he applied for admission to the aviation corps. He was admitted to the Massachusetts School of Technology for special instruction in aviation and was one of the first chosen from a class of twenty-five for special training in France. He had his first flight in a French war plane October 15 in company with a French instructor.

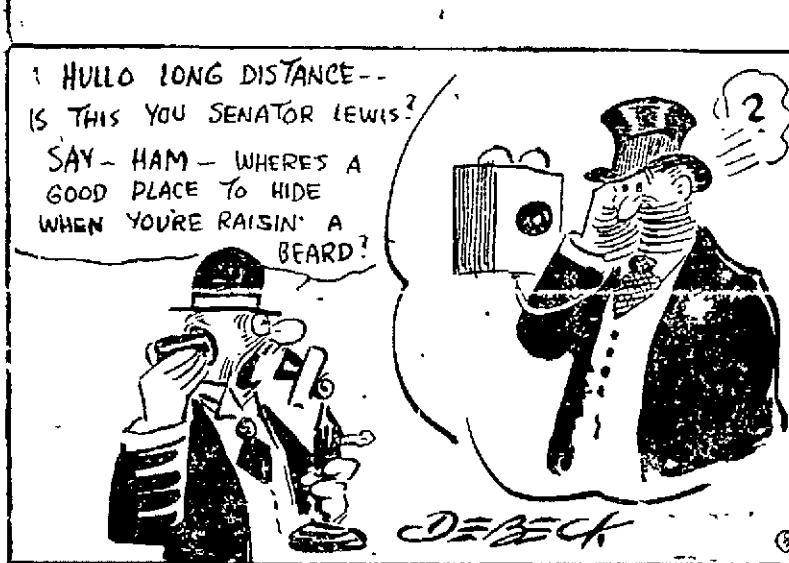

Supervision of Travel As Spy Precaution

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Supervision of travel of American citizens, so as to guard the country against spies and other enemy agents is provided under broad powers conferred by a bill pending in the House with the administration and foreign affairs committees as its sponsors.

President Bars Right of Patent to Enemies

WASHINGTON, April 16.—President Wilson today stopped the issuance of patents and copyrights to enemies and revoked the authority given Americans to apply for patents in enemy countries.

MARRIED LIFE

CAN SEE 'CLOSE-UP' OF TRIBUNE HOME

The motion pictures showing "The Making of a Great Newspaper," filmed in the new plant of The Oakland Tribune and showing in detail the processes involved in editing, setting up, making up and printing a great metropolitan newspaper will be shown at the T. & D. Theater tonight.

The picture is an educational film, showing the most modern devices invented by the greatest experts in newspaper making, and ranges from a "close-up" of a linotype machine in operation to the mammoth new lighting Hoe press, built for The Tribune in the east, which required four freight cars to transport to Oakland.

This is also in connection with the pressman clamping on the metal plates and the press running off its 72,000 papers an hour at lightning speed.

A. J. L. Rivers who filmed "The Making of a Great Newspaper," declared that it was one of the greatest educational motion pictures ever taken.

With The TRIBUNE pictures is given an exceptionally good program of T. & D. feature films, including "Red Red Heart," in which is Belinda Chapin another of his famous Abraham Lincoln characterizations.

Alice Brady is seen in a splendid bit character study in "Woman and Wife," an adaptation of "Jane Eyre." Frank Spalding, the sailor singer, Tichenor's orchestra, and Allan Lane, organist, offer an excellent musical program.

The program changes tomorrow, and includes the filming of the triple launching at the Moore Shipbuilding plant on the Oakland estuary.

MAIL MAN SELLS $5316 W.S. STAMPS

PACIFIC GROVE, April 16.—It looks like the mail carriers of this city have little record all their own when it comes to selling thrift stamps.

F. C. Derby, local carrier, while delivering his mail and "kidding" the housewives along his route, sold $5216 in thrift stamps during the month of March.

With the assistance of others, some of whom sold $1000 worth of stamps, Derby was able to bring the office record up to $5419 for one month's work.

Elgin Hurlbert, postmaster, writing of the work of his men, declares that the $1600 sales are not mentioned, as they represent only an ordinary month's work.

Our sales to date—March 1—are $18,672, or about $7.75 per capita, which for a town of 2400 is not slow.

It looks as though Pacific Grove held the coast per capita record.

Film Producer Guilty of Spy Act Violation

LOS ANGELES, April 16.—Robert Goldstein, a motion-picture producer, who has been on trial in the Federal court, charged with violation of the espionage act, has been convicted by a jury.

Exhibiting scenes intended to incite hatred against the British, which were incorporated in a motion-picture play called "The Spirit of '76."

KIND HEART OF PIEDPIPER IS TROUBLESOME

The Pied Piper of Hamelin is impersonated in life by W. D. Brown, aged 50, before Judge James G. Quinn today for failure to support his wife, and who was given probation.

It was reported by Probation Officer Compton that the friends and employees of the old man attribute to him the character of mind understood by children, and that wherever he goes the children flock around him. He tells them quaint stories, and, it is said, one of the reasons why he could not support his wife, is that many a child of the poor has taken home groceries with the money he intended to take to his wife.

His old man's sole education was acquired in a newspaper office, and there he learned to write and a number of stories of children have been sold by him to the "Youth's Companion."

The report blames the "laxity of the courts" for the man's irresponsible, which he is declared to be unable to assume. The wife being an invalid appealed to his sympathy and he undertook to care for her, the report surmises. She is 23 while he is past 50.

HABEAS CORPUS WRIT IS DENIED

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—A petition for a writ of habeas corpus to obtain the release from Angel Island of Frederick Esmond, International Workers' Defense League secretary, and defendant in the Sacramento I. W. W. cases, was denied by District Judge M. T. Doelling.

Esmond was arrested in the Jack London library, in which he is alleged to have advised or taught the unlawful destruction of property and had advocated anarchy. His bail was fixed at $1000 when he was held pending deportation proceedings.

Esmond being an Englishman, and later raised to $10,000 by Immigration Commissioner Edward White. The writ was asked for on the ground that his bail was excessive.

Esmond is associated with Miss Theodore Pollak, 699 Seaside avenue, Oakland, treasurer of the Defense League, and also under indictment in the Sacramento cases, which will be set for trial April 23, according to Assistant United States Attorney Johnston, who is handling the cases.

WOMAN OFFICER WILL BE SENT TO PALO ALTO

SAN JOSE, April 16.—As a result of a communication received from Mrs. Parker S. Maddux of the War Camp Community Service Commission of Camp Fremont, money was appropriated at a meeting of the Board of Supervisors to pay a woman protective officer to be stationed at the Southern Pacific station at Palo Alto.

Mrs. Maddux in her letter declared that need for such an officer was expressed in numerous letters which she had received from social agencies in Palo Alto.

U. S. FORCE IS NOT LANDED AT VLADIVOSTOCK

TOKYO, April 16.—Official advices from Vladivostok say the city is calm. Japanese blue jackets are not replying to occasional shots from snipers at night. Protection by the French consulate has been taken over by the Japanese.

The Japanese foreign office announces there is no confirmation of a Petrograd despatch that the Bolshevik government has proclaimed a state of war in Siberia and ordered the Red Guard to oppose the Japanese armies.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—In giving out today the text of a statement made at Vladivostok by Ambassador Francis the State Department made it clear that the landing of Japanese and British forces at Vladivostok was not in pursuance of any international agreement, but merely was for the purpose of protecting Japanese and British interests.

The ambassador's statement issued on April 10 said that no Americans had been landed at Vladivostok. It was given out in demand of reports that Francis had declared the incident was due to an agreement.

The statement by Francis reads: "The American ambassador upon being asked what was the position of his government concerning the landing of Japanese and British marines at Vladivostok said:

"The Soviet government and the Soviet press are giving too much importance to the landing of these marines, which have no political significance but merely was a police precaution by the Japanese admiral on his own responsibility for the protection of Japanese life and property in Vladivostok and the Japanese admiral Kato so informed the American consul, Caldwell, in Vladivostok. My impression is that the landing of the British marines was pursuant to the request of the British consul for the protection of their British consular and British subjects in Vladivostok which he anticipated would possibly be jeopardized by the unrest which might result from the Japanese landing."

"The American consul did not ask protection from the American cruiser in Vladivostok harbor, and consequently no Americans were landed."

Merritt Starts Probe of State Fish Industry

Investigation of the fishing industry in this state was started this afternoon in the office of Ralph Merritt, United States food administrator of this district. A Paladini, known as the fish king, has been summoned to be the first witness, and the heads of other big fish concerns will be called to testify.

A number of Oakland and Berkeley persons who have been active in endeavoring to solve the reason for the unusually high price of fish are expected to offer evidence on which the food administrator can base some action that will, it is expected, bring about an improvement in the conditions objected to.

First Billion Is Reached Nation Subscribes Third of Sum

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Liberty Loan subscriptions are passing the first billion-dollar mark today.

Figures from eleven of the twelve Federal reserve districts showed a total of $806,465,250 up to the close of business yesterday. No official reports have yet been received from the big Minnesota district, where the campaign opened yesterday. Unofficial reports from here, together with today's work, however, will carry the roll of Liberty dollars well over a billion. It is believed.

The far west and midwest are showing brilliantly in their efforts. Board reported today that all the states in that district will reach their quotas before the end of the week.

Two hundred and six communities have been awarded honor flags. The Kansas City district reported 23 counties and 147 towns having subscribed their allotments. Oklahoma is making rapid strides, jumping from $3,000,000 to $10,000,000 in a single day. Tulsa, Okla., subscribed $4,000,000. Oklahoma City also has passed its quota.

Encouraging reports are coming also from the Chicago district. Iowa, which obtained its quota last week, now reports 1.5 per cent of its allotment subscribed.

The Cleveland district has the greatest number of communities oversubscribed. Cleveland today reported 754 honor flags have been awarded. The bright spot in the Cleveland district is Toledo, where the total has gone to $12,090,600. The city is 40 per cent subscribed.

Two wards which have failed to "go over the top." Columbus reports a total of $15,000,000.

The New York district has awarded honor flags.

The Dallas federal reserve bank, with a total of more than $20,000,000 reports a greatly increased number of small subscriptions.

5000 More Surgeons Are Needed for Army

That, although there are now sufficient physicians in the army to care for two millions of soldiers, many more will be required for the new armies to be raised, will be emphasized at a patriotic meeting to be held in behalf of the Medical Department of the St. Francis Hotel, San Francisco, Friday evening. According to the state committee of the medical section of the National Defense Council, which is arranging the meeting, the number of physicians now commissioned in the Medical Reserve Corps is 17,430, and there are about 2,000 more in the Regular Army, National Army, and National Guard.

With another half million soldiers about to be drafted, 5,000 more physicians will be required.

There is a dearth of surgeons and internists of the first class. All physicians under 55 years are asked to pass the army physical exam. A volunteer Medical Service Corps is being formed and will be open to those who cannot join the reserve corps. It is pointed out that the government is preparing for a long war and a very large army and that a proportionately large number of physicians will be required.

Irvington District Claims Honor Flag

The first claim for a Liberty Loan honor flag in Alameda county was made by the district of Irvington this morning.

According to John R. Blacow, chairman of the Irvington district, which comprises Warm Springs and Mission San Jose as well, the district went "over the top" with its quota early this morning.

Irvington's quota is officially fixed at $24,150. Shortly after the banks opened today, said Blacow, the district subscribed more than the amount that was necessary to put it "over the top."

Pioneer Mining Man of West Is Dead

SALT LAKE CITY, U. T., April 16.—David Keith, capitalist and pioneer mining man of the West, died at his apartment in the Utah Hotel here last night of pneumonia. He was 70 years of age. He was one of the original promoters of the Ontario and Silver King mines at Park City and partner of former Senator Thomas Kearns in the ownership of the Salt Lake Tribune. His son, Lieutenant David Keith Jr., is with the colors in France.

Cardinal Sends Sum to Restore Chapels

BALTIMORE, April 16.—Cardinal Gibbons has announced that he has sent $10,000 to France for the restoration of chapels that have been damaged by the cannon fire of the Germans. This is part of the funds raised in this country under the auspices of the cardinal, archbishops and bishops of the Catholic church and Cardinal Gibbons said last night for the first time that this fund now has reached $15,000,000.

Father Ordains Son As Baptist Minister

VALLEJO, April 16.—The Cornell Baptist church was the scene of an impressive ceremony Monday afternoon when Rev. Harry H. Story, son of Rev. W. E. Story, pastor of the church, was ordained a minister of the gospel.

The young minister has been acting as pastor of the Baptist church at Lakeport and the Lake county church requested the Cornell Baptist church to ordain its preacher on account of his father being pastor here. The examination and ordination was attended by many members of the church and representatives of the Pacific Association and the Baptist churches of Berkeley, Rio Vista and Sacramento.

War Board to Take Air Board's Function

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The functions of the aircraft production board are to be taken over by the war industries board. It was intimated today in official circles. It is understood that this step, as one of the several planned in the process of bringing about an adequate production of machines for use in France, has been put up to the President and that it has met with his approval.

I suffered terribly from pains in my back and side—had hot flashes and could neither eat nor sleep well. The doctors finally decided that the only thing that could help me was an operation on the uterus.

Instead, however, I began drinking the FONG WAN CHINESE HERB TEA and now after a few weeks all my pains have vanished and my health is completely restored.

"MIDNIGHT" OLSON LOSES SHIP AT SEA

One more of those epics of the sea, in which Oakland mariners have played a part, has been written, and this time it is Captain "Midnight" Olson and his crew of twelve who have given the laugh to death.

But "Midnight" Olson has lost his command, the four-masted schooner, James H. Bruce, which sailed from Oakland in March last to Bureka, where it loaded with lumber and, on February 3, departed for Australia. What happened after that is not known here, for the epic is told here so far only in the terse wireless message received today from Captain E. R. Sterling Jr., of the Barkentine E. R. Sterling, saying that he has picked up Captain Olson and his crew at sea, leaving the schooner a total loss.

The owners of the Sterling say she is due to arrive at Australia within a few days, and it is the belief that the Bruce met disaster in a storm down by the Southern Cross. What hardships the men went through, and how the Sterling happened along are questions that will remain unanswered until the men get back to this port, for wireless is not for the description of such hazards as these.

The Bruce was built at Fairhaven, Cal., nearly two years ago, and was valued at around $80,000. She was named after the late Captain James H. Bruce of the Fireman's Fund Insurance Company. She was 533 tons register, 156 feet long and 37 feet beam, with 12 feet depth of hold. J. C. Eschen of Alameda is the owner and he had her thoroughly overhauled at an Oakland yard before she departed on what proved to be her final voyage.

At the same time the message concerning the Bruce was received there came also from Australia word that the bark Albert put into an Australian port yesterday looking five feet a day. She is owned by Olson Brothers of Oakland, and each summer is used as a salmon packer in Alaska waters. She was on her way to the Hawaiian Islands and it is believed was blown far off her course before she sprung a leak. Her owners expected her to be in port in time to load for Alaska when the season begins there, but as she will have to be unloaded and repaired in Australia this will be impossible.

East Bay Cities to

Renew Fare Fight

Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley will renew their fight tomorrow before the State Railroad Commission against the applications of the Southern Pacific and the Key Route to increase ferry fares. The hearing will be held in the commission's office in the Commercial building in San Francisco.

What is regarded as a victory for Oakland in either the ferry or the railroad commission was announced this morning by the traffic bureau of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce. The commission has ordered an "indefinite postponement" of the application of the Southern Pacific for an increase in inter-yard switching rates.

An order for "indefinite postponement" is generally regarded as amounting to a dismissal.

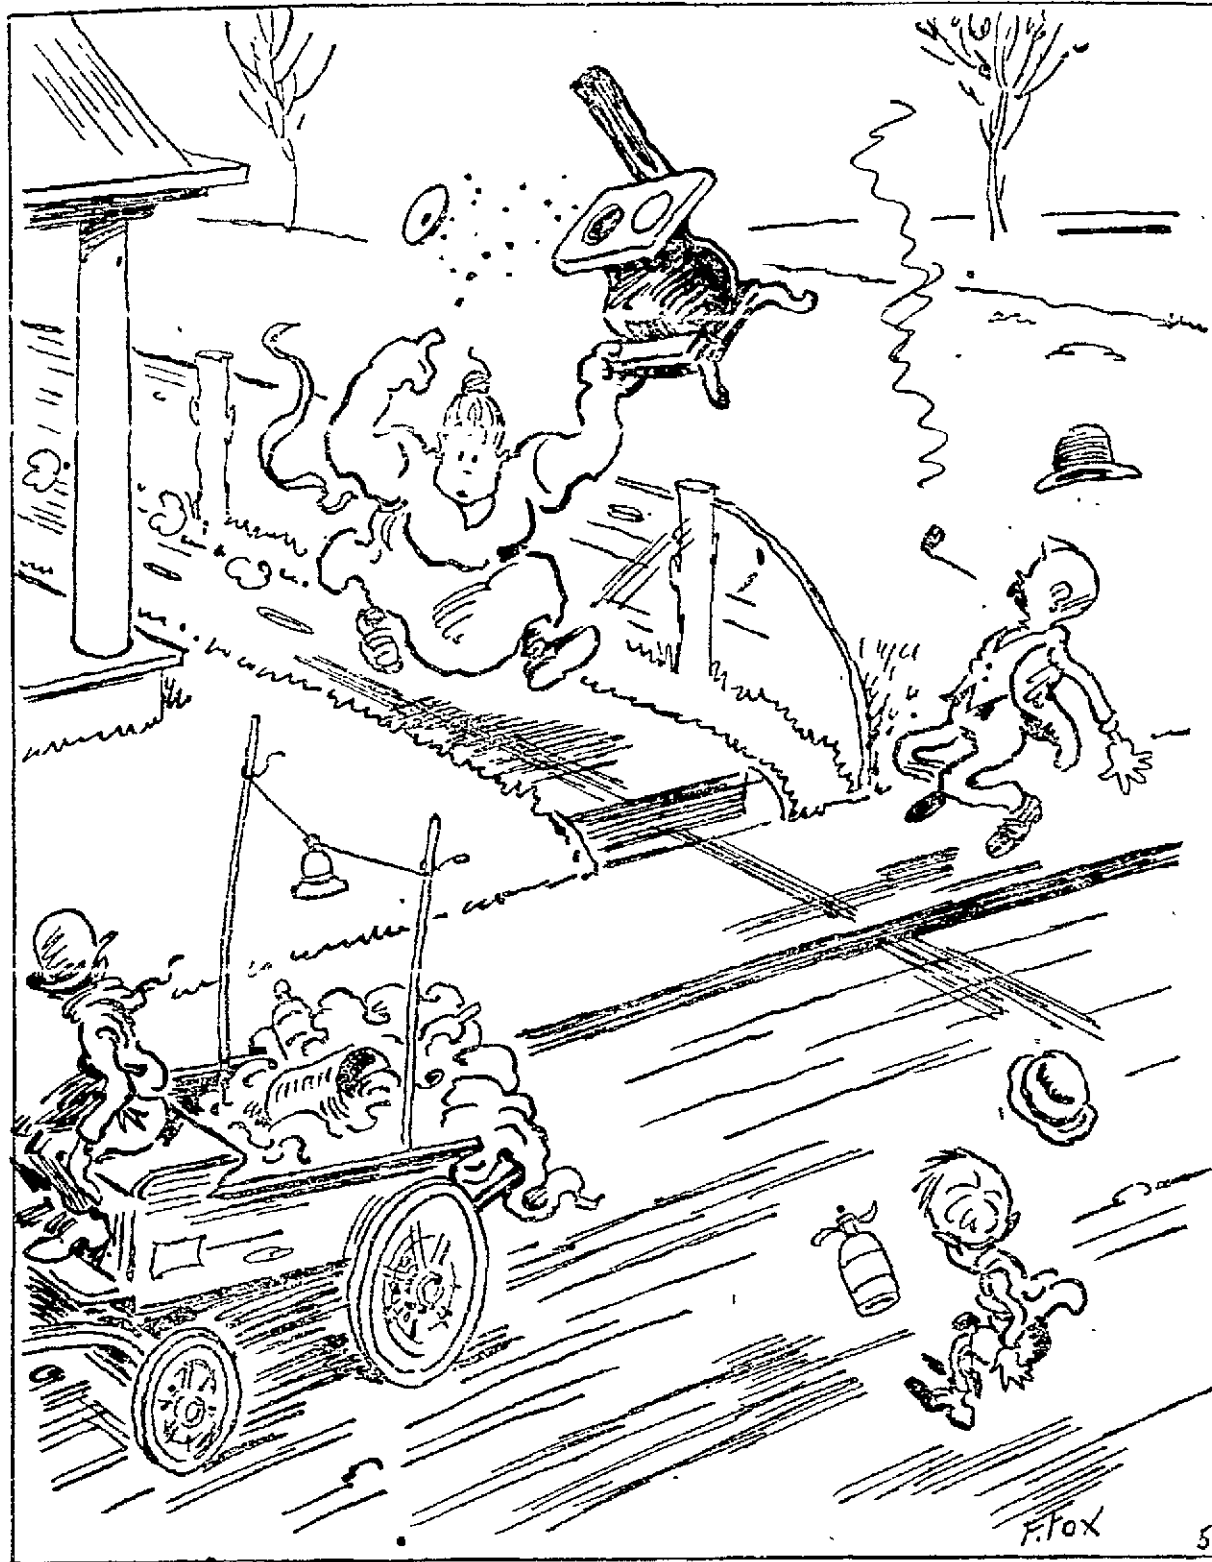

The Southern Pacific asked for an increase of from 25 to 50 cents a ton on inter-yard shipments, with a minimum of 30,000 pounds to the car and an increase of the minimum charge from $5 to $7.50 a car.

Law Suit Delves Into Past $50,000 Estate Is Involved

In 1892, when Christal M. Mathieu was only a few hours old, she was left in the tender care of the sisters of a foundling asylum in New York. Today in the department of Superior Judge T. W. Harris she sat and listened to the lawyers read and argue over long depositions, in which one of those sisters and others testified as to the event, some contending that the infant has grown to be the plaintiff in the action at bar, others declaring that the baby brought to the asylum that morning of January 16, and named Mary Anna Mitchell, has grown to be altogether another woman, living somewhere else in the world and knowing nothing whatever about the suit to share in a half interest of the $50,000 estate of the late Joseph N. Mathieu of Oakland.

According to the record of the institution, the name given the baby by the mysterious woman who left it, was Mary Anna Mitchell. But the name was changed by one of the sisters to Mary McLaughlin. Why the name was changed was not fully explained.

"Was it not a custom of the sisters to look in order to conceal the identity of the mother?" was asked.

"It is sometimes," the sister answered.

It is believed that the answer provided the explanation, and the witnesses for the plaintiff in the action said that the plaintiff was Mary Anna Mitchell, whose name was changed to Mary McLaughlin, and who later came to be known as Christal Mathieu.

After the baby grew up she was adopted by a man named Joseph Friend, of Jacksonville, Illinois. In 1894 Christal, as she was known then, went to live in Chicago with a man named Joseph N. Mathieu, being, she claims, accepted into the family as a daughter. It is also claimed that, although she did not know it at the time, he decided himself to be her real father.

In 1898 the wife of Mathieu died and he came to Oakland to make his future home, bringing the little girl with him. In 1911 he married again, and the woman who became his wife that day is now the defendant in the action, Caroline Alice Mathieu.

In 1905 Christal married Dr. E. B. Masten, well known Oakland physician. LEFT ESTATE TO WIFE.

In 1914 Joseph N. Mathieu died, leaving all his property to his wife, the defendant. Never did she plaintiff claim that he and her mother were secret sweethearts and that some unkind fate kept them from being married and recognizing her before the world as their own. After he died his brother came to her and told her the truth.

Now the claim is made that undue influence was exerted and that he did not intentionally deny her in his will. The further claim is made that his last wife, knowing that Christal was the daughter, kept the knowledge from the judge at the time the will was admitted to probate and the estate distributed.

Attorneys H. L. Nutting and Rowell O. Hunt are attorneys for the plaintiff and F. W. Street for the defendant.

Will Ask Honor Be Given Writer

In recognition of her eminence as a writer, admirers of Mrs. Stella Sterling Michel, author of a new book entitled "Literary California," will ask Governor Stephens to confer some honor upon her. Mrs. Michel's "Literary California" is dedicated to the Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West. It is now in the hands of the publishers, the Harr Wagner Company, San Francisco, and will be issued within a short time. Admirers of the California poets and authors met in San Francisco recently at an "Evening in Literary California," when they assisted Mrs. Michel in the launch of her new book. "Literary California" is a companion to "The Story of the Pile," a review of early California literature and writers, published by Mrs. Michel in 1895, as a contribution to the California Exposition, at which she was one of the six women commissioners from this State. Mrs. Michel lives in San Francisco. She formerly had a country home in Hayward, and is a member of Hayward Parish, Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Street to Lecture at Claremont School

"The World's Affairs Down to Date" will be discussed tonight by Arthur I. Street, speaking in Claremont school, College avenue and Birch court, as one of the lecturers of the school department course. The events of the world since Street's last lecture are summarized and pictures of the prominent men, places and the most striking incidents that have come into prominence will be thrown on the screen. Street's lecture is not a mere enumeration of events, but a related narrative pointing out tendencies and dominant interests.

REED TO CONTINUE PARR LEASE FIGHT

Announcing that he has not "quit the fight" on the Parr-McCormick waterfront lease, and that he feels that V. O. Lawrence is only "discouraged by being brow-beaten by the mayor," Fred E. Reed today issued a statement declaring that as soon as the third Liberty Loan drive is concluded, an attempt will be made to bring the lease matter directly before the voters. Reed said:

"I cannot agree with V. O. Lawrence, that a man is to be congratulated because he has accomplished what he set out to do, nor that a good man quits when he's only apparently licked. A true-blooded American would hardly write a letter today congratulating the knaves on what he has done in Belgium. Yet he has accomplished there just what he set out to accomplish. We must do our bit for our cities in time of crisis. And that time in Oakland is right now.

"I don't think Mr. Lawrence is licked. He's only tired and discouraged like a lot of others who have been browbeaten by a mayor who appears to be working against the interests of our city for the benefit of corporate interests.

"As soon as the Liberty Loan drive is finished, we shall have the necessary time and organization and every individual voter in Oakland will be told just what this lease is.

"Personally, I shall not quit. I have seen the mayor of our city and two commissioners refuse to consider at all a great volume of expert opinion that was delivered to them, every particle of which said that their course was contrary to the best interest of Oakland. Nor will any of the others quit who have the good of Oakland at heart."

Says Referendum May Start Recall

That the start of a recall campaign on the granting of the waterfront lease to the Parr-McCormick steamship line, as threatened by the Taxpayers' League, will at the same time precipitate a recall directed against Commissioner Frederick Soderberg, is an insistent rumor at the city hall. It is known that in the camp of Mayor Dave such a proceeding would be welcomed with enthusiasm as the mayor has completely fallen out with the commissioner of streets, and makes no pretense otherwise. It is an open breach.

CONSIDERABLE TALK

Frederick L. Higgins, secretary to the mayor, admitted today that there is considerable talk about starting a recall against Commissioner Soderberg, or rather taking advantage of any election at which it could be promoted without starting any adverse row. A referendum election, if started, would be the medium that the mayor's friends are waiting for, it is said.

"While we do not fear a referendum on the action of the council in awarding the waterfront lease, we would not object should one be started and it is practically certain that at the same time a recall would be started against Commissioner Soderberg. Just what the reasons would be I cannot say at this time, but I understand that the matter is shortly to be made public."

Oakland Tailor Makes Valuable Find

"After spending $800 for medical advice and treatment for four years without getting any benefit for stomach trouble and bloating I was induced by my friend to try Mayor's Wonderful Remedy, and must say that a $1 bottle has done me $500 worth of good. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will cure indigestion or constipation. Osgood's Dept. Drug Store—Advertisement."

MRS. WILLIAMS NOW SEEKING HER CHILDREN

Mrs. Florence Williams, widow of Hugh D. Williams, whom she three times tried to divorce and who at the time of his death was plaintiff in an action against her, continues to maintain her place in the spotlight as the champion litigant.

This time she appears with a writ of habeas corpus to compel the surrender to her of three of her children who were some time ago given into the custody of the Associated Charities, claiming that they are "running the street like greyhounds."

Judge Wells, who heard the matter at the time the custody was given, sat with Judge Waste to determine what should be done. Surely had the proceeding begun when Judge Waste discovered that there was no return on the writ and that one of children was absent and no official of the Associated Charities present in court.

The judge sent for the sheriff to explain what was done with the writ, remarking that it was unbecoming of any court to bandy about the persons of children in such slipshod fashion. But after waiting fifteen minutes, and no one appearing to make the explanation, the matter was continued. Deputy District Attorney Myron Harris, representing the plaintiff attorney's office in the first habeas corpus proceeding under the new administration, contended that the entire proceeding was wrong, that one superior judge could not hear a writ to take away custody given by another judge, and that the remedy was an appeal from the order giving the custody to the Associated Charities.

Mrs. Williams is an applicant for a widow's pension under the widows' and orphans' aid act.

WIRELESS PLANTS FOUND IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, April 16.—Word is being awaited from Washington today regarding action to be taken relative to two secret wireless stations that were discovered here, one on the top of the office building in the heart of Chicago's business district. One federal employee was reported to be under suspicion, it being said that he was sent to "seal up" one of the stations some time ago, but did a poor job. The stations are said to be powerful affairs and that one was capable of sending messages into Mexico. One man taken in connection with the work is said to be an alien enemy.

The receiving station is on the north side of the city and it is believed to have stolen messages from the Great Lakes naval training station tower and relayed them to the downtown sending station.

Two operators who were arrested at the sending station said they had been at work a long time but did not know where they were sending the messages. They said they had some knowledge that the "stuff" they were handling had something to do with Great Lakes.

It is said that by a tuning arrangement the sending apparatus flashed messages for a long time without any of them being picked up by the government.

"CLEAN, PAINT UP" IS URGED BY COUNTY BOARD

"Clean Up, Paint Up, and Thrift Week" has been endorsed by the Board of Supervisors who, in a resolution, have voiced a general call to the county to rally to the plan. The board set aside the week of April 21 as the time for the proposed work. The resolution follows:

Whereas, it is necessary that every person in the community shall do their bit to aid the nation in this great struggle for civilization and humanity, and every effort, no matter how small, contributes to the winning of the war; and

Whereas, dirt and dirt accumulations tend to aid the spread of disease and injure health, while cleanliness supports the work of our sanitary and health departments; and

Whereas, a national "clean up, paint up and thrift" campaign has been started throughout the country in support of this object; therefore be it

Resolved, that the Board of Supervisors of Alameda county sets aside the week of April 21, 1918, as Clean Up, Paint Up and Thrift Week, and earnestly requests every resident of Alameda county to devote that week to the improvement of the sanitary condition and general appearance of their property and to take such steps as may be necessary to put such property in good condition and to devote all unoccupied space to the production of anything that will aid this country in its hour of struggle.

SECRET AGENT IS SUSPENDED PENDING PROBE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—Isador Costanzo, United States secret service agent, for ten years in government service, has been indefinitely suspended by Captain W. P. Walsh, acting head of the local bureau, pending an investigation of charges that he accepted money to protect a disorderly house conducted at 515 Jones street by Mrs. Rose Rossi. The matter has been referred to W. H. Moran, chief of the secret service at Washington, D. C.

Action on the charges against Costanzo, who was one of the government's most trusted employees, is expected by the Federal Grand Jury. His operative was suspended by Walsh, who is acting in place of Harry Moffitt, at present ill at home, after a telegraphic conference with Washington. Witnesses examined by Walsh, Assistant United States Attorney James Colston, and Lieutenant of Police Charles Goff, head of the moral squad, are said to have instigated the action.

Miss Florence Russell, 24, told the Jones street house by Costanzo. Allegations against the accused agent that he accepted $400 from Mrs. Rossi, and thereafter urged members of the moral squad to "leave Mrs. Rossi alone," are declared by Costanzo to be a "frame-up." He admits receiving $300, which he later returned, he says, to consummate the purchase of a rooming-house lease for the woman.

The money involved is now in Federal hands.

Red Cross Officers

Welcomed at Naples

NAPLES, April 16.—The American Red Cross officers were given an enthusiastic welcome at a meeting today. Professor Prati, mayor of Naples, welcomed the Red Cross officials and spoke of the splendid work the American society had done for Naples.

H. P. Davidson, chairman of the Red Cross War Council, in his reply, expressed thanks for the kind sentiments uttered and told of the work America was doing to assist Italy and the other allies.

CITY SCHOOLS ADOPT PLAN TO DROP GERMAN

Renewing the oath of allegiance, the members of the City Board of Education have taken preliminary steps to eliminate the teaching of German from the public schools of Oakland, in conformity to the recommendation of the teachers of the state in convention here last week.

Superintendent Fred M. Hunter stated at the meeting of the board last night that within a very short time he will present to the board a plan whereby German will be gradually dropped in the intermediate and the high schools where there are beginning classes. Students who have taken German for the greater part of their course will be allowed to complete the study in order to meet the university matriculation requirements.

"The new plan will provide for language options, including the Romance languages, French, Spanish and Latin," said Superintendent Hunter. "For some time there has been a tendency on the part of students to leave off German and to increase in the Spanish and French courses. Very few, comparatively, started German courses this year and it is undoubtedly due to patriotic impulse as well as the belief that in the future it will be impractical."

The Board of Education decided to request the East Bay Water Company to grant special rates for water furnished school war gardens.
